New Regime For Manchuria Is Urged

LYTTON BOARD FOR CONFERENCE ON MANCHUKUO

Commission Suggests League of Nations Council Take Hand If Chinese and Japanese Fail to Agree on New Administration

REPORT UP FOR DEBATE NOV. 14

Canadian Press and Associated Press Dispatches

Geneva, Oct. 3.—The League of Nations was definitely at grips to-day with the Manchurian problem—one of the greatest tests it has faced in its history—following publication of the report of the investigating commission headed by Lord Lytton of Great Britain.

The commission, in an exhaustive analysis of the situation which began with the opening of the Japanese army's drive in September of last year, states it found the military campaign was unjustified and that the new state of Manchukuo is not supported by the Manchurian people.

It proposes a special autonomous regime for the territory, with China retaining full sovereignty over the three provinces, and suggests a special Sino-Japanese conference to work out the basis of a permanent settlement, with the provision that the League Council take a hand if the Chinese and Japanese themselves should fail to agree.

Because of the delay requested by Japan and granted last week by the league, consideration of the report will not be taken up until November 14, when Tokio will send a special delegate to present the case for Japan.

Generally speaking, the commission's report, which was made public yesterday, by the League of Nations secretariat, was hailed here to-day with satisfaction.

JAPAN NOT TO ACCEPT PLAN

War Office Says Country Will Quit League If Lytton Report Approved

Tokio Newspapers Unite in Opposing Suggestions For New Manchuria

By Glenn Bab, Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Tokio, Oct. 3.—The War Office to-day issued a statement declaring that if the Assembly of the League of Nations should act in the spirit of the Lytton report, Japan would have no alternative but to withdraw from the League and to oppose its action with the firmest determination.

The War Office communique came after leaders had gathered to consider the Lytton report as it was made public in Geneva yesterday.

It was said the time was premature to regard the report as representing the League's final attitude.

Yesterday evening the Foreign Office announced Japan could not for one moment consider the Lytton commission's recommendation for continuation of Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria.

This announcement came after the government leaders had completed a

London, Oct. 3.—An official announcement on behalf of the Irish Free State Government to-day said James McNeill had relinquished the office of Governor-General of the Free State.

John W. Dulanty, Free State High Commissioner in London, issued a statement saying:

"In accordance with advice tendered His Majesty by the President of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, the King has approved of Mr. James McNeill relinquishing the office of Governor-General of the Free State."

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 3.—The Exchange Telegraphic Agency reported to-day that James McNeill had tendered to the King his resignation as Governor-General of the Irish Free State.

If this is correct, Justice Hugh Kennedy will act as Governor-General until the appointment of a successor.

FOLLOWS CORRESPONDENCE

Departure of Governor - General James McNeill for London over the week-end led The Irish Press, organ of President Eamon de Valera, to suggest to-day the recent correspondence between the Governor-General and the President would have "the expected sequel—the retirement of Governor McNeill."

At the time the government's bill for abolition of the oath of allegiance to the King was going its tortuous way through the Dail and the Senate the Governor was snubbed on several occasions by the Free State Republican ministers. On one occasion members of the government pointedly left a function at which the Governor was present when a band played "God Save the King," while the Governor was denied invitations for several government functions in connection

OCT. 11 SET FOR HEARING OF J.J. HARPELL ON CHARGE LAID BY T. B. MACAULAY

President of Sun Life Assurance Company Accuses President of Journal of Commerce of Criminal Libel

PUBLISHER ON BAIL OF $950

Canadian Press

Montreal, Oct. 3. — A plea of not guilty was entered before Judge Maurice Tetreau in the Court of Sessions here to-day by James J. Harpell, president of The Journal of Commerce Publishing Company, when he appeared to answer a charge of criminal libel brought by Thomas Bassett Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. Bail was set at $950 and the preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday, October 11.

Mr. Harpell had been arrested earlier in the day on a warrant sworn out on the complaint of Mr. Macaulay. An article appearing in the last issue of The Journal of Commerce is the basis of the action. The article referred to Mr. Macaulay and the Sun Life Assurance Company.

The complaint was signed by Mr. Macaulay personally.

In his complaint Mr. Macaulay charged Mr. Harpell with "having printed on September 23 defamatory libel without justification or excuse, likely to injure my reputation by exposing me to hatred, contempt and ridicule and designed to insult me."

Canadian Press Staff Writer By C. R. BLACKBURN

Seaforth, Ont., Oct. 3.—A bombardment of oratory on five fronts climaxed the Federal by-election campaign in South Huron, which closed Saturday evening.

A considerable stir followed the circulation Saturday of a pamphlet attacking the present government on its stand in relation to complaints against the Sun Life Assurance Company.

The pamphlet, addressed to "The Householder" and delivered to the homes of South Huron residents, contained an appeal to the people to consider the contents when voting. It displayed copies of correspondence which passed between Mitchell P. Hepburn, M.P. for Elgin West and Ontario Liberal Leader, and Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in which the former requested government intervention under the Insurance Act because of alleged violation of investment regulations on the part of the Sun Life.

The pamphlet also contained copies of correspondence which passed between the "Policy-Holders' Association" and Prime Minister R. B. Bennett on the same subject.

Circulation of this pamphlet was condemned Saturday by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, last of five cabinet ministers to enter the campaign.

LABOR MEN STATE AIMS

Party in Great Britain Opens Annual Meeting With Swing Toward Left

By GEORGE HAMBLETON Canadian Press Staff Writefr

Leicester, Eng., Oct. 3.—The annual conference of the Labor Party of Great Britain opened here to-day with a swing toward the left.

Through speech and draft resolution rang the call for a greater measure of socialism. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, leader of the party, threw cold water on any suggestion of revolutionary methods, but he declared the need for a definite advance toward socialism was more imperative now than ever before.

"Hard facts," exclaimed Mr. Henderson, "have reinforced the essential truth of our position. The aim and fundamental purpose of organized labor is wholly to transform the existing system by measures of social reconstruction and to replace it by a new social order."

There must be the closest collaboration between the Labor Party and the organized industrial workers and in the future it should become even more intimate, he said.

INTERNATIONAL OUTLOOK

"Labor must be definitely international in its outlook and should stand for disarmament and arbitration on

CHINESE HAVE LYTTON REPORT

Nanking Officials Believe League Eventually Will Solve Manchurian Question

By MORRIS J. HARRIS Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Nanking, Oct. 3.—No Chinese government official qualified to comment authoritatively has offered any statement as yet on the Lytton report, which was made public here.

The general opinion in Nanking, however, was that the report more or less coincides with expectations and should provide a basis for settlement of the dispute with Japan if both governments follow its recommendations.

It was believed the Chinese National Government might not entirely approve the recommendations, but that the authorities would be willing to accept the greater part of the report as a basis for a solution.

The feeling persists here that the Japanese attitude will be critical, and there is a belief effective solution of the Manchurian question ultimately will rest with the League of Nations

STUDIED BY MANCHURIANS

Peiping, Oct. 3.—Manchurian officials were agreed to-day the Lytton report offers a promising basis for permanent settlement of the Manchurian problem provided the Japanese accept it.

To-day a large staff was still engaged translating the document, which probably will run to 300,000 Chinese characters. After that its conclusions will be studied carefully and views will be exchanged between Chang Hsiao-liang and the central government.

There appears to be a general feeling among Chinese here that the report is satisfactory from the Chinese standpoint.

Jones Denies Cut In Pay Ordered Yet For Civil Service

Servants Protest Bearing Burden While Other Recommended Economies Halted

Reports that members of the cabinet had decided to order another general pay slash in the British Columbia civil service and salaries of ministers by way of implementing the economy recommendation of the Kidd report, resulted to-day in a storm of protest from employees to the ministers and other heads of departments.

Ministers sought to give assurances that the intimations as to coming cuts were unofficial. They said the cuts would have to be passed by the cabinet and had not been taken up formally yet.

The proposed cut would be the second this year and according to the schedules now under consideration will run from 2 to 10 per cent. The 10 per cent cut will be on the larger salaries and wages, while the 2 per cent will be on the lowest ones, which

LIQUOR SALES ARE DISCUSSED

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 3.—"The liquor traffic remains stubbornly entrenched in Canada. Because of the financial condition of our country, the revenue to Dominion and provincial treasuries renders opposition to it exceedingly difficult," declared the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church in its annual report to the General Council of the church here to-day.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics was cited as authority for the statement that in 1931 the Dominion revenue derived from the manufature and sale of liquor was $43,263-881. "In eleven years," the board stated, "the Quebec government has received $70,000,000 from the liquor traffic, British Columbia in the same period $35,000,000 and in five years the Ontario government received $43,-000,000. Other government control provinces have received revenue in like proportion."

British Labor Is For Soviet Trade

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Leicester, Eng., Oct. 3.—With a tumultuous voice the Labor Party of Great Britain, in annual convention here this afternoon, condemned any termination of the British trade treaty with Soviet Russia, as recommended at the Imperial Economic Conference.

The convention also called for the "return" of a policy of co-operation with the Indian peoples.

The convention strongly attacked the "means" test imposed by the National Government as unjustly limiting the payment of unemployment insurance or the "dole."

To reach the estimated collection the city requires $1,543,000 in current taxes.

OFFICER CHARGES OVER VALUATION

Associated Press

Chicago, Oct. 3.—State Attorney John A. Swanson to-day said Samuel Insull Sr. reaped a profit of $374,000 through an over-valuation of securities in an exchange of stocks in his various companies January 4, 1929.

The prosecutor said he had made the discovery in his investigation of the transactions of the Insull Utility Investment Company, the investment trust which failed with a loss of $226,000,000.

Insull, he said, exchanged $9,765,908 worth of stocks in his companies for the preferred and common stocks of Insull Utility Investment Inc. and in doing so placed an excess valuation on 1,000 shares of Insull, Son & Company, which he gave in the exchange.

Swanson asserted the Insull, Son & Company stocks were worth $875,599 at the time, while the senior Insull in making the trade put their value at $1,250,000.

The government will seek ratification of pacts with Great Britain, the Irish Free State, Southern Rhodesia and South Africa and possibly modification of existing treaties with Australia and New Zealand.

The report of the Duff commission, which investigated Canada's railway problem, will be tabled on the first business day of the session, but will not be debated until after Parliament reassembles after the new year.

Calgary Police Decline To Remove Jobless From Trains

The members of the commission were: The Earl of Lytton, Great Britain, chairman; General Frank R. McCoy of the United States army, Count Aldovrandi of Italy, General Claudel of France and Heinrich Schnee of Germany.

NOT SELF-DEFENCE

After giving the conflicting Chinese and Japanese versions of the events which provoked the outbreak of hostilities at Mukden September 18, 1931, the report says: "The military operations of Japanese . . . cannot be regarded as measures of legitimate self-defence."

The Japanese blamed the Mukden incident on an explosion on the railroad line which they testified created a break in the line of 31 inches, the committee points out, but they also testified that a train had passed over the break at full speed shortly after the explosion, arriving in Mukden undamaged and on time.

The commissioners also condemn the bombing of Chinchow by Japanese airplanes near the close of the campaign. "Bombing of a civil administration by military forces cannot be justified," the report says.

REGULARS AND IRREGULARS

Describing the character of the opposition to the Japanese after the Chinese withdrew within the Great Wall, the report states:

"It has been the practice of the Japanese to describe indiscriminately as 'bandits' all forces now opposed to them.

"There are in fact, apart from bandits, two distinct categories of organized resistance, namely, regular and irregular Chinese troops."

The government of the new state of Manchukuo under Henry Pu-Yi, is characterized as one formed and supported artifically by Japanese military and civic officials, without genuine support from the local Manchurian population.

OPEN DOOR

The principle of the open door should be maintained not only from the legal standpoint, but in the actual practices of banking, trade and industry, the report declares.

The document lays on the League Council responsibility for carrying out its proposed solution in conformity with the provisions of League covenant, the Briand-Kellogg pact and the Nine-Power Treaty.

CHINA'S WEAKNESS

The commission does not hold China blameless for the situation in the east, but sharply indicts China's governmental weakness and administrative disorders. Moreover, the report insists on the necessity for China to satisfy Japanese economic interests in Japan and in Manchuria.

"The final requisite for a satisfactory solution," says the report, "is temporary international co-operation in the internal reconstruction of China."

Emphasizing the fundamental interests and responsibility of foreign powers other than Japan, the document states:

"Any real, lasting solution by agreement must be compatible with the stipulations of existing multilateral treaties on which is based the peace organization of the world.

AID FOR CHINA

"The considerations which actuated representatives of the powers at the Washington conference are still valid. It is quite as much in the interests of the powers now as it was in 1922 to assist in the reconstruction of China and the maintenance of her sovereignty, her territorial and administrative integrity, as indispensable to the maintenance of peace.

"Any disintegration of China might lead, perhaps rapidly, to serious international rivalries.

This could be interpreted as a reference to the possibility of a conflict involving Soviet Russia.

"Finally," says the report, "the interests of peace are the same the world over. Any loss of confidence in the application of the principles of the League covenant and the Pact of Paris in any part of the world diminishes the value and efficacy of those principles everywhere."

NO RETURN TO 1931

Two suggestions for settlement the report condemns as unsatisfactory. They are resoration of the status quo ante, which the Chinese have been demanding, and the maintenance of the present Manchurian regime.

"The first," says the report, "would be no solution, since the present conflict arose out of conditions prevailing before September, 1931. To restore those conditions would be merely to invite a repetition of the trouble.

"Maintenance and recognition of the present regime in Manchuria would be equally unsatisfactory. Such a solution does not appear to be compatible with fundamental principles existing in international obligations nor with good understanding between the two countries on which peace in the Far East depends.

"It is opposed to the interests of China. It disregards the wishes of the people of Manchuria, and it is at least questionable whether it would ultimately serve the permanent interests of Japan."

THREE PROVINCES

Establishment of a special autonomous regime for the three eastern provinces of China under the sovereignty of the central Chinese government is possible, the report declares, "if China and Japan could recognize the identity of their chief interests, and if they were willing to make those interests include the maintenance of peace and the establishment of cordial relations with each other."

The report lays down a full outline of a settlement which it suggests be reached through an advisory conference of the two disputing parties and representatives of the disputed provinces.

A satisfactory solution for permanent peace must conform to the following ten principles, says the report:

1. Compatibility with interests of both China and Japan.
2. Consideration of the interests of Russia.
3. Conformity with the League covenant, the Briand-Kellogg pact and the Nine-Power Treaty.
4. Recognition of Japan's interests in Manchuria.
5. Establishment of new treaty relations between China and Japan.
6. Effective provision for settlement of future disputes.
7. Manchurian autonomy.
8. Internal security against external aggression.
9. Encouragement of economic rapproachment between China and Japan.
10. Internal co-operation in Chinese reconstruction.

This tenth principle conforms to the suggestion of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the report says.

Realization of this plan should have happy results for the whole world, the commissioners wrote, but without Sino-Japanese conciliation no solution can succeed.

YOUTH IS HEARD

"Young Japan clamors for strong measures in China and a policy of thoroughness in Manchuria," the report says. "At heart the problem for Japan lies in her anxiety concerning the political development of modern China and the future to which it is tending.

As for China, now in the throes of revolution, "all other claims of her newly awakened nationalism should be subordinated to the one dominating need for effective internal reconstruction of the state."

Turning to the proposed advisory Sino-Japanese conference, the report suggests neutral observers might assist if the parties to the conference should agree.

"If the conference is unable to reach an agreement on any particular point," it is suggested, "it would submit to the Council the point of difference, and the council would then attempt to obtain an agreement."

FOUR DOCUMENTS

The results of the advisory conference, say the report, should be embodied in four separate instruments:—

First, a declaration by the government of China constituting a special administration for the three eastern provinces in terms recommended by the advisory conference.

Second, a Sino-Japanese treaty dealing with Japanese interests.

Third, a Sino-Japanese treaty of conciliation, arbitration, non-aggression and mutual assistance.

Fourth, a Sino-Japanese commercial treaty.

There is one chapter narrating the events in Manchuria beginning with the outbreak of hostilities at Mukden on September 18, last year.

The Tientsin and Nanking incidents and the Shanghai operations are recounted in detail, but without an attempt to fix responsibility.

NO REAL POPULAR SUPPORT

The commissioners, however, frankly characterize the government of Manchukuo as formed and supported artificially by Japanese military and civil officials, without genuine support from the local population. The report says:

"It is clear the independence movement, which never had been heard of in Manchuria before September, 1931, was made possible only by the presence of Japanese troops."

The Japanese general staff, says the report, knew from the beginning what use would be made of the autonomy movement in Manchuria.

"While there are a number of factors which contributed to the creation of Manchukuo," the commissioners wrote, "two which in combination were most effective and without which, in our judgment, the new state could not have been formed, were the presence of Japanese troops and the activities of Japanese officials, both civil and military."

WITNESSES FRIGHTENED AWAY

The report discloses that the commission had difficulty in discovering the the real attitude of the inhabitants of Manchuria toward the Manchukuo regime.

The Japanese gave the commission a strong protective guard which frightened away witnesses. Most of the delegations interviewed were introduced by Japanese or Manchukuo authorities, and the commissioners indicated they were skeptical of the genuineness of the testimony obtained from these delegations.

"In some cases," they wrote, "persons who presented statements informed us afterward they had been written or substantially revised by Japanese and were not to be taken as expressions of their real feelings."

The commission received 1,550 letters from farmers, tradesmen, students and workers in the towns, which were analyzed by experts.

"All these 1,550 letters, except two, were bitterly hostile to the new 'Manchukuo Government' and to the Japanese," says the report. "They appeared to be sincere and spontaneous expressions of opinion."

Then, summarizing all the evidence, the commissioners state:

"We have come to the conclusion there is no general Chinese support for the 'Manchukuo Government,' which is regarded by the local Chinese as an instrument of the Japanese."

London, Oct. 3.—Editorial comment on the Lytton Commission's Manchurian report was varied here to-day.

Most papers praised what they said was the exhaustive and thorough character of the report, but there was considerable scepticism about the ability of the League of Nations to act on its recommendations.

The London Times raised a question of doubt over whether Japan would be able to stand the strain of its undertaking in Manchuria and predicted the possibility that the Japanese people eventually would "share the commission's conclusion that disregard of the feelings of the Manchurians would not ultimately serve the permanent interests of Japan."

The London News-Chronicle condemned the British Government for "handling the Manchurian question feebly and failing to take a line which might have joined Great Britain and the United States in a definite policy which the other powers would have accepted and Japan respected."

The London Daily Herald said the report established that "Japan is guilty of a great international crime and that the excuses made for it are baseless and invalid."

The Telegraph said that if a solution had to wait on the results of international co-operation in the reconstruction of China, it would wait "long enough.

The Daily Mail indicated strong sympathy with Japan and said "Britain does'nt mean to be involved in any anti-Japanese proceedings."

"Japan's presence in Manchuria," it added, "is as salutary as that of Great Britain in India."

NEW WATERMAIN AT PORT ALBERNI

Large Main Supplying City Waterworks Connected Yesterday; Cost $60,000

Special to The Times

Port Alberni, Oct. 3.—In process of building since 1930, a new section of Port Alberni's waterworks system was brought into use yesterday. The new main is one and one-quarter miles long from the intake at China Creek, crossing two ravines on high trestels.

The main is constructed of sixteen-inch copper-iron alloy pipe and replaces an old section of wood stave pipe. The cost of the job was in the neighborhood of $60,000.

upon 485 accredited delegates and fifty-one ex-officio, including members of the Legislature and officers of the association.

The constitution provides for approximately 600, and the attendance exceeded expectations to the extent that the committee had provided only 350 badges. The ballroom of the Hotel Georgia was packed to the doors, many delegates had to stand and others found accommodation in the gallery. More seats were provided for the afternoon.

"UNION SUIT" SPECTACLE

Capt. Mackenzie told the convention that its task was not to defeat the Tolmie Government.

"They have done that themselves," He said. "The task is to draw up a policy that will win the confidence and support of all independent and progressive-minded citizens of the province so they will unite with you to defeat the forces of reaction in whatever guise they present themselves."

He alluded to the spectacle of Premier Tolmie and Finance Minister Jones parading the province in "union suits" as unedifying and non-constructive.

He urged the party to give its leader a free hand, saying they could not trust the province's interests in better hands.

PATTULLO DELAYS ADDRESS

Mr. Pattullo, although called upon by the president, Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, to speak this morning, said he preferred not to discuss policy until after the convention had functioned.

He wanted the convention to be free to express itself fully on the questions of the day, he said.

NO "MACHINE TACTICS"

Goodwill and loyalty predominated during the morning proceedings.

The body of the convention asserted itself with determination to take charge of the proceedings, in order to be quite sure, as one speaker forcibly expressed it, that "noboby could suggest machine tactics."

Debate on procedure was conducted with characteristic vigor, while the demonstration in behalf of Mr. Pattullo was of overwhelming enthusiasm.

A resolutions committee representative of every part of the province was named from the floor and began its deliberations while the convention went on with formal business. Questions of policy were reserved for the afternoon and subsequent sittings after the resolutions committee has begun to function.

SOUNDS CONVENTION KEYNOTE

Mrs. M. E. Smith, in sounding the convention keynote, said the Liberals were assembled in a serious-minded mood to do something towards alleviating the distress in which the people of British Columbia found themselves.

She compared the present meeting with the Liberal convention of 1914, which drew up the historic platform which enabled the Liberals to save the province from its financial collapse in 1916.

That programme had been carried out, she said, and, although there had been mistakes, the province had made great social and economic advance during the twelve-year Liberal regime.

"To-day we must enunciate principles that will give the people a hopeful outlook for the future," she said.

Paying tribute to T. D. Pattullo, the party leader, she said:

"I'm glad the Conservatives don't like him. That is a compliment."

DEFINITE MEASURES URGED

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 3—When Mr. Pattullo and the president, Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, at the beginning of the provincial Liberal convention here to-day, said it was to be an open convention where everyone would have the right to state his or her opinions, they took them at their word and waived aside suggestions that the important resolutions committee should be named from the chair for their approval. Instead, a resolutions committee of forty-eight, one from each constituency, with some others to be added by the chair, was named from the floor. This took time and delayed the proceedings somewhat.

Speakers in general emphasize the convention must be definite in the principles which it would endorse for presentation to the public of British Columbia.

Stuart Henderson, K.C., of Victoria, was applauded when he declared that "something definite must be passed, and personally I want to see something of a radical nature."

UNION ONLY OF PROGRESSIVE-MINDED

"Liberalism is vital and alive, forceful in British Columbia," declared Hon. Ian Mackenzie, M.P. for Centre Vancouver. And he wanted to tell Mr. Pattullo, who would be "the next Premier of British Columbia," that the federal Liberal members from the provinces would be with him shoulder to shoulder against the forces of Tolmieism when the election fight was at hand.

"If you are going to have a union government it must be of Liberal-minded and progessive people," the member for Vancouver said. "Forget the instruments of yesterday and seize those of to-morrow. The Tolmie Government will defeat itself, but you must inspire the confidence of the great independent public.

"Remain true to the great inspiration of Liberalism," he said, and "trust the people.

"You will never solve unemployment until you confront the great problem of the present financial structure," he declared.

"I was proud, indeed, the other day when Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King came out with a policy which means the establishment of a national bank."

He did not blame the banks, but Parliament for the powers given to the banks. The functions of national finance and private money-lending must be separated.

CAUSES STRIFE IN MOTHERLAND

Capt. Mackenzie cited the problems which would face Parliament at Ottawa with regard to the St. Lawrence Waterways, railways, unemployment and the Imperial Conference agreements.

'Twas a far cry, he said, from the pre-election promises of the present Prime Minister to the dispersal of unemployed in Ottawa by the police. He predicted that any success that may have been attained at the Imperial Conference would be in so far as the agreements followed along the lines laid down in the last Dunning budget.

"The name of Canada is an issue of domestic strife in the Motherland," he continued.

"It was not thus when Laurier and Mackenzie King left the Old Country. If ever the British Empire were wrecked it would be by bargaining such as was recently seen in Ottawa."

He told the delegates they had a real fighter in Mr. Pattullo and urged them that when they drew up their platform they give him a free hand in carrying it out.

LIBERAL RECORD GOOD

Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, who presided in opening the convention, declared it to be the most important convention of Liberals ever held in British Columbia. When the Liberals got in power, and they assuredly would at the next election, they must seriously consider the needs of the people.

The history of the Liberal Party in British Columbia was not one to be ashamed of. They were in power during the war and when returned men were being take ncare of. Measures were adopted to this end, and if there were mistakes they were not of intention.

"We are living through a destructive period for want of something constructive," she said. "Before we can hope to do anything outside British Columbia we must clean up our own doorstep.

"We must bend every energy to give the people something to look forward to.

"We are a people who have stood beside the old flag of Liberalism and we do not intend to desert it."

FORCES OF REACTION IN OFFICE

"This convention is gathered for high purpose," Mr. Pattullo declared in the course of brief remarks

Referring to his choice as leader he said: "I believe you expected me on all occasions to act in the public interest and to hold inviolate the positions of the Liberal Party to assist those very purposes."

Liberalism did not mean just partianism, but the word in its broadest sense.

"Is it not a fact," he asked, "that at this time of depression the forces of reaction are in power throughout the world and the Liberals are standing in the offing to take over the solution of the problems to be met?"

He had no doubt the convention would declare itself specifically in regard to principles which would benefit the people of British Columbia."

RIDINGS NOMINATE

The first business of the convention was the appointment of a credentials committee. Next came the appointment of a resolutions committee. When it was suggested that suggested names be read from the chair, it was moved that the appointments to this committee be made from the floor so as to remove any suggestion of machine methods. There was some confusion as numbers of the hundreds of newly-seated delegates made suggestions as to the method of procedure. Finally the list of forty-eight constituences was read alphabetically and nominations were made. The chair was empowered to add names from the committee which has been dealing with resolutions to the convention.

During the argument it was mentioned humorously that Alberni would be wiped out under the distribution bill last session, but one of the Alberni delegates declared: "The Tolmie Government will be wiped out before Alberni is."

There was a flurry as the credentials committee was being appointed from the chair. A delegate who did not give his name objected to the inclusion in the list of Brenton S. Brown, declaring that Mr. Brown and two or three other Liberals were responsible for the Liberal party being in its "present disgrace."

The convention as a body shouted its disapproval, and Mr. Brown went out with the other appointees amid applause, with his Liberalism apparently quite purse so far as the rest of the delegates were concerned.

WELCOMED TO CITY

Alderman R. N. Fraser welcomed the delegates on behalf of Mayor Taylor and the City of Vancouver.

A motion of loyalty to the King and Queen was passed, moved by Mayor D. B. Johnson of Kamloops and seconded by Major Guy Boyer of the Islands.

A resolution of confidence in Mr. Pattullo was moved by Donald MacDonald of Trail, who declared "we have never had occasion to regret our decision," in choosing him as leader.

A. R. Mallory of Queen Charlotte seconded the motion, declaring Mr. Pattullo had done more for the opening up of that part of British Columbia than any other man.

Stuart Henderson, Victoria, moved the motion of confedence in Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King. If he had been reelected he believed Canada would not be facing many of the problems which now conforn't her. The time would not be long before he would be called to power again.

J. A. Russell, Vancouver, seconded the motion.

Hawarden, Sask., Oct. 3—Accidentally knocked down and stepped on by a horse when it ran out of a barn, Stanley Edward Eddy, aged two years and nine months, was killed in his father's farmyard three miles west of here. The child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Eddy.

Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, issued a statement to-day following the general protests from the service. In this statement Mr. Jones denied that the cut had been ordered, but stated that "all matters of expenditure are receiving serious consideration."

BIG CUT ALREADY THIS YEAR

The civil service salary cut earlier this year ranged from 2 to 12 per cent. The savings by the reduction and also by the elimination of some positions resulted in bringing the civil service salary list down from $4,000,000 to $3,600,000 a year.

The present cut, according to the plans of those arranging it, would reduce the civil service salary list by another $300,000. This would mean a saving of more than $150,000 on this item during the remainder of the government's fiscal year.

Civil servants to-day admitted that while renewal of the attack on civil service salaries was generally highly unpopular in Victoria, it was popular in other parts of the country, especially in sections distant from the capital. It is known that up-country members have for months been bombarding the members of the cabinet for severe cuts in the whole civil service rates of pay. The members say their claim is based on the demand of the constituents, especially in the scattered small centres. So in ministerial circles it is believed that what is lost politically in Victoria by any slash will be more than made up in the rest of the country.

Some business interests on the Mainland have also been persistent in their demands on cabinet ministers that they should bring about a cut, alleging that the rate of government service pay is now much higher than in business and industry and the employment more secure.

KIDD REPORT PREDICTION ADMITTED

Mr. Jones to-day said that "cuts must be made somewhere" in provincial government expenditure because, despite all economies brought in so far, the government is now running straight into a heavy deficit, completely throwing out of balance the budget which he at the last session had presented with the expectation of it being balanced by general economy. It is now admitted in government circles that the Kidd report was accurate in stating that the budget would be badly out of balance at the end of the present fiscal year. Mr. Jones takes the stand that he was brought in to save the finances of the government for all the people of the province and he considers rigorous economy is a moral obligation upon him to carry out.

Spokesmen for the civil service, however, to-day said they could not see why so large a proportion of the economies should be at the expense of a class like themselves that are practically helpless as far as making effective protest, and whose members in years of prosperity had not been accorded pay increase in keeping with the rates in private business.

It was explained from the government's point of view most of the economies, such as merging of departments urged by the Kidd report, cannot be put through properly except by action taken at a session of the Legislature.

As for recommendations in the Kidd report for a sharp reduction in the size of the cabinet, it was pointed out that because of the union government proposals of the Premier to come up next year, all cabinet ministers would have to hold their offices until the change was brought about at that time.

with the Eucharistic Congress. Protesting against this last June, the Governor intimated he would resign.

An earlier London dispatch than the above read as follows:

It was understood on good authority to-day that James McNeill, Governor-General of the Irish Free State, had relinquished that office and that the King had approved his decision.

It was understood the King took this step on advice from President Eamon de Valera of the Free State. Mr. McNeill had luncheon with the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace.

He reached London this morning, went to the palace at noon and remained there until shortly before 3 o'clock.

The procedure which was understood to have been adopted is in accordance with a resolution passed at the Imperial Conference of 1930, under the terms of which the Premier of any dominion can offer advice to the King regarding the appointment or the withdrawal of the Governor-General of any dominion.

Whether the payments in the last four days will bridge this $500,000 gap was a question which officials were trying to discover this morning. Every clerk in the treasury office was working on the task, which included checking over all counter payments made in the last-minute rush and something like 600 accounts received by mail.

RUSHED TO LAST MINUTE

Right up until 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon the treasury staff were kept busy by the stream of taxpayers who had postponed their payments until the eleventh hour before imposition of penalty. The cashiers had time only to make receipts, accept cheques and go on to the next customer, and the checking fell further behind.

Five large boxes contained the mail accounts and these were stuffed full when the zero hour came. This morning the task of sending out receipts for these was commenced.

"It looks good, so far," City Treasurer Edwin C. Smith commented. "Our mail collections appear slightly heavier than usual, but there is no telling yet what percenage of these are current accounts and what are arrears."

The collection of arrears is a significant feature of the annual tax rush this year. Up to the end of August, arrears showed 20 per cent higher than in 1931. A collection of $213,000 on this account is estimated for the year.

The city's budget this year called for a total levy of $1,823,000, of which $10,000 is a fixed charge against the Empress Hotel. The regular collection shortage was estimated at $270,000, which left $1,543,000 to be collected in order to balance the budget at a 41.5 mill rate.

When the receipts have been calculated to the end of September, a good idea will be obtained as to the possibility of a surplus in the finances. Mayor Leeming some weeks ago declared there was a good chance of the city coming out on the right end of the balance sheet.

Preparation of the annual tax sale list is now in progress. To date it shows quite a number of properties slated to go under the hammer, but redemptions are possible during this month.

JAPAN NOT TO ACCEPT PLAN

two-day study of the commission's report.

Translated into Japanese, the report ran about 180,000 words, filling 412 typewritten pages.

MINDS MADE UP

"So far as the commission's suggestions refer to Manchuria they are utterly worthless," the government spokesman said. "Our policy was irrevocably fixed with our recognition of Manchuria's independence."

The commission's account of the origins and development of the state of Manchukuo "showed a very strong prejudice," he declared.

Referring to implications in the document that Japan's action in Manchuria violated the Briand-Kellogg Pact and the Nine-Power Treaty, he said:

"Such doctrines and theories are not sufficient to maintain peace in the Orient, an issue which is the paramount consideration in Japan's viewpoint.

MONROE DOCTRINE

"To maintain that peace we believe nothing short of a Japanese Monroe doctrine in the Far East will suffice. Extension of our influence in Manchuria is one step toward that goal. By comparison foreign commercial interests in Manchuria are a lesser consideration.

"However, Japan has maintained the policy of the open door in her own territory, and there is no reason to expect the open door policy will not be maintained wherever Japanese influence extends."

The higher government officials delegated the Foreign Office spokesman to express the view of the government. Members of the cabinet declined to comment, in accordance with a cabinet decision.

NEWSPAPERS STATEMENTS

Tokio, Oct. 3.—Publication of the Lytton commission's report on Manchuria was met with a chorus of denunciation in the Japanese press today, and with a declaration from the government that if the League Assembly should adopt the report Japan would withdraw from the League and oppose its action.

Fourteen Transients Brought Before Magistrate at Lethbridge as Result of Ottawa's Embargo

Canadian Press

Calgary, Oct. 3.—Unemployment transients' threats as a result of the Dominion Government ban on freight train riding have not been carried out in Alberta yet, but Royal Canadian Mounted Police are on their toes, ready for any emergency.

The ban on riding the rods went into effect September 30 despite the men's threats they would converge on the highways, if ejected from the freight trains, and force motorists to carry them to their destinations. Many of the wandering workless are from the harvest fields which they deserted in an effort to obtain free transportation home before the ban ended rod-riding.

Calgary city police have refused to aid the Mounties in removing unemployed travelers from freight trains, claiming that if they can arrive in Calgary via the rods they can leave that way. The Dominion force is bearing the whole task. No arrests have been made in the Calgary area so far, although fourteen men taken into custody at Lethbridge and were held to appear in court to-day on charges under the Railway Act.

No motorists have been reported disturbed by the workless, who refuse to buy transportation to their homes, maintaining harvest wages were too low this season for them to stand the expense.

THREE SENTENCED

Field, B.C., Oct. 3.—Tattered and grimy from riding the rods, three young men were sentenced here, each to fourteen days in the Golden jail. They tried to beat the ban against traveling on freight trains, coming afoul of the trespass sections of the Canadian Railway Act.

CIVIL SERVICE GETS FURLOUGH

But Dismissals Barred in Economy Move at Washington Affecting 650,000

Some Departments Furloughing Staff For Seventy-two Days Without Pay

Washington, Oct. 3.—No civil service employees have actually been discharged as a result of the government's economy effort.

Savings are being made through a policy of not filling vacancies in the federal service, but the economy law prohibits dismissals and insists on extra furloughs in places where it is necessary to save on personnel to keep within appropriations.

Thousands of employees are threatened with serious loss, however, as a result of the marked inequalities which Congress inflicted during its rather frantic, hysterical attempts to slash appropriations. The employee who, because he happens to work in one federal bureau instead of another, stands to lose a couple of months' pay instead of the loss of twenty-four days involved in the general legislative furlough is good and sore about it.

About 50,000 of the 650,000 hit by the pay cut, which is being effected through the legislative furlough, are also threatened with an "administrative furlough," which means many more additional payless days for no better reason, the employees say, than that the House and Senate engaged in planless, scatter-brained competition when the country was yelling for curtailment of expense.

DEPARTMENT CUTS UNEQUAL

The House appointed an economy committee which was working out salary proposals while the Senate, on an entirely different tack, started off to cut every departmental appropriation bill by a flat 10 per cent. Chairman Joe Byrns (Tennessee) of the House Appropirations Committee said the Senate need not expect the House to block anything it sent along. So in almost no time the Senate had slashed 10 per cent from the Commerce, Interior, Labor, Justice and State Departments, along with gouges at the Federal Trade Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, Civil Service Commission, Farm Board and other independent agencies. The cuts shot through the House in half an hour and Hoover signed the bills. No one seemed to care whether some of the government's most valuable work would have to be curtailed.

Then the Senate got to the five big departments — War, Navy, Treasury, Post Office and Agriculture—which spend 94 cents of the government's expense dollar. These department's experted such pressure, with cabinet officers leading the assault, that they staved off the 10 per cent cut and made the whole business rather ridiculous.

72 DAYS WITHOUT PAY

The "administrative furlough" is the only legal means the five reduced departments have to get by on the available money unless they can eliminate expenses otherwise. In some branches, including the Civil Service Commission, it is said that the two furloughs will make employees go seventy-two days without pay.

Some are trying to get through the fiscal year without imposing the second furlough, but it is too early to tell whether they can. The Commerce, Justice and State Departments are making desperate efforts to economize —using old paper and clips, cutting travel allowances, eliminating publications and everything else feasible. Labor and Interior probably will have the extra furlough, along with Civil Service.

But they all hope that Congress will have a heart when it comes back after elections and votes a deficiency bill. It obvously was unfair to hit the little fellows with their 6 per cent of expenditures so hard and it is hoped that Congress will be in a reasonable frame of mind next December.

FARM BOARD TO RUN SHORT

The Federal Farm Board was hit hardest of all, its appropriation being cut from $1,900,000 to $900,000. If it was to keep its employees on it would be all out of money by January 1, so it devised an elaborate furlough system under which 140 employees were placed on an "indefinite furlough" which amounted to dismissal. But Comptroller General McCarl made a ruling which would have taken part of the furlough saving for the Treasury so the Farm Board changed the furloughs to dismissals, which was made possible by putting them in the "expert" group not subject to civil service. The board's research activity has been especially curtailed. There is difference of opinion whether much of that work was not duplicated by the Department of Agriculture.

PLAN OPPOSED BY CATTLE RANCHERS

Enlarged Municipal Districts Scheme in Alberta Believed Menace to Them

Canadian Press

Calgary, Oct. 3.—The Alberta government's enlarged municipal districts proposal would kill the cattle industry, according to R. R. MacLeay, prominent High River ranchman.

Mr. MacLeay to-day declared Alberta stockmen were opposed to the government's scheme to create about forty enlarged municipal areas by amalgation of a large number of the 160 districts in existence at present.

It would mean a burden to the ranching areas, Mr. MacLeay said, if they were absorbed into the enlarged municipalities. He said increased taxation would result from road building and other projects which the ranchers had never sought.

In the improved areas, Mr. MacLeay said, ranchers were in fair financial condition, and most of the ranches throughout Alberta had been self-sustaining always, the owners never seeking government expenditures on roads or other works. This condition, he believed, would certainly be altered if the government's plan was carried out.

Over-production By 37 Per Cent At Coast Mills

Seattle, Oct. 3.—Current new business of 217 mills reporting to the West Coast Lumbermen's Association was 37 per cent over production for the week ending September 24, the association reports.

Inventories of 144 mills are 25 per cent less than at this time last year.

During the week 321 mills operated at 23.1 per cent of capacity, compared to 20.9 per cent for the previous week and 34.2 per cent for the same week last year. Of these mills, 209 were down and 113 operating.

Unfilled orders increased 6,259,000 feet from the previous week. Decreases compared to the previous week were noted in new export business, new domestic cargo orders and new rail business.

MEXICO CHURCH LAW STATEMENT

President, Replying to Pope's Encyclical, Says Statutes Must Govern

Associated Press

Mexico City, Oct. 3.—President Abelardo L. Rodriguez yesterday evening issued a statement declaring all the Roman Catholic churches in Mexico would be retired from religious use if the Catholic church's attitude as "shown in the recent papal encyclical" should continue.

The President declared that "methods filled with falsehoods" against Mexico were characteristic of the papacy and termed "insolent" the defiant attitude shown in the recent encyclical issued from Vatican City.

SCHOOLS AND SHOPS

"If the insolent, defiant attitude shown in the recent encyclical continues," the President declared, "I am determined the churches will be converted into schools and shops for the benefit of the nation's proletarian classes.

Pope Pius XI met what he called "the new and legal persecution" of the church and Roman Catholics in Mexico last Friday with an encyclical announcing a policy of "formal co-operation," without renouncing principles or withdrawing past denunciations.

The President's statement followed an editorial attack on the encyclical by El Nacion, party organ of the dominant National Revolutionary Party.

"Mexico now has entered into a complete period of stable constitutional government, of progress and achievement," said the President.

"I fully respect liberty of worship established by the nations constitution, but I cannot tolerate those who do not know how to do honor to their own religion, and utilize the property of the nation to form a hostile campaign against the government."

ALL-DAY MARCH SEEN IN BERLIN

Nazi Boys and Girls Salute Hitler; Von Schlrach, Their Leader, Tells Chancellor Papen Youth Will Win

Potsdam, Germany, Oct. 3.—While the nation was celebrating President von Hindenburg's eighty-fifth birthday, 90,000 boys and girls passed in review yesterday before Adolf Hitler in tribute to his leadership of the National Socialist Party.

It was announced at Nazi headquarters that the first German youth meeting exceeded in attendance similar events in both Russia and Italy. The attendance here was rolled up by late comers to a figure far surpassing expectations.

From morning until twilight, a great column of brown-shirted boys and girls from eight to eighteen years old, representing all German-speaking districts of Europe, wound miles through cobblestone streets to the Stadium.

SALUTED FOR SIX HOURS

The Fascist leader stood gravely at attention for six hours, raising his arm in salutes. Herr Hitler did not discuss politics, but the youth cheered wildly when Herr von Schlrach, leader of the youth movement, said: "Hitler can depend on his youth."

As though he were addressing the chancellor himself, Herr von Schlrach shouted: "Von Papen — you can dissolve the Reichstag, but you cannot dissolve our youth. Some day that youth will dissolve your government."

First Beauharnois Power Is Delivered

New Plant on St. Lawrence Linked With Montreal; Ontario Link Soon

Canadian Press

Montreal, Oct. 3.—"The first stage in the giant 500,000-horsepower hydro-electric power development undertaken by the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company at Beauharnois, Que., about twenty-five miles from Montreal, has been successfully completed and the delivery of power to meet contracts which came into effect on October 1 commenced on schedule."

This official statement by the Beauharnois Company on Saturday marked the commence ment of power delivery from the huge undertaking.

POWER TO MONTREAL

Beauharnois had contracted to supply 25,000 horsepower to the Ontario Hydro Commission and 35,000 horsepower to the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated Saturday. The Ontario Hydro Commission had not completed its facilities to take delivery of the power, but the Montreal order commenced to flow over the wires. Beauharnois has completed construction of wires to the point at which Ontario is to pick up its power.

This hydro-electric development has necessitated the construction of a canal fifteen and one-quarter miles in length, between Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis on the south side of the St. Lawrence River, to take advantage of the 82-foot difference in level between the two lakes, which involved the excavation of over 35,000,000 cubic yards of materials of various kinds.

BRIDGES BUILT

It has been necessary to divert three lines of railway and construct four huge bridges as well as twenty-five miles of highway.

At the lower end of the canal on the shore of Lake St. Louis, between Beauharnois and Melocheville, there has been constructed a powerhouse over 1,100 feet in length, in which there have been installed to date four large 50,000 horsepower units with complete connections of all kinds and two small service units of 8,000 horsepower capacity each. The powerhouse is so designed that additional units up to a capacity of 500,000 horsepower can be readily added as the contracts for the delivery of power demand.

In two years the country lying between Valleyfield and Beauharnois, some fifteen miles, has been so altered as to be hardly recognizable, as the work of constructing the big canal was pushed forward.

The canal itself is to be part of the St. Lawrence Waterways when that undertaking is pushed to a completion.

IRISH MINISTERS TALK OF CHANGES

Canadian Press

Ballinrobe, Irish Free State, Oct. 3.—P. J. Ruttledge, Irish Free State Minister of Lands and Fisheries, in an address here Sunday said events would occur next week to show the Saorstat had a Republican government. He did not say what these events were, but added:

"We do not stand for republicanism because it appeals to the sentiment of the people, but because we believe it is best and will give the greatest freedom, happiness and contentment to our land."

At Navan, D. C. Ryan, Free State Minister of Agriculture, declared in a speech that the Free State Government's position on land annuities was fully justified.

The minister said the Irish Free State campaign to sell dairy products in Germany was continuing and that better prices were being obtained than in Great Britain.

He concluded that if the Free State succeeded in growing sufficient grain for its own use, this agricultural wealth will be almost as much as the whole of Free State cattle exports.

HOOVER ON BRIEF TOUR

U.S. President Goes to Des Moines, Iowa, to Make Campaign Speech

Canadian Press

New York, Oct. 3—With Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's electioneering tour of the west at an end, Herbert Hoover prepared to-day to leave on a brief "rebuttal trip." The President planned to take train at Washington this afternoon for a hurried trip to Iowa to deliver at Des Moines Tuesday evening what many regard as the keynote speech of his campaign.

Burdened with administration tasks and the work of planning relief for mortgage-laden farmers and the many thousands of unemployed, Mr. Hoover intended making his sally into the west as quickly as possible. But the Des Moines address, in which it is known he will discuss farm relief and answer recent Democratic charges of governmental inefficiency, will be carried by radio to every part of the country.

Overnight a slightly wearied Governor Roosevelt traveled toward Albany and home, his trip through twenty-one states personally considered a success. Review of the speeches he made during the busy trip revealed that should the Democratic presidential candidate be succsesful at the polls five weeks hence, he would work for: As low a tariff as the prosperity of industry would permit; public ownership of waterpower; a conference of farm leaders to work out a solution of the farm problem; an international silver conference, and a national transportation plan.

AGED ONTARIO EX-PASTOR DIES

Dr. McMullen was born in the county of Monaghan, Ireland, on January 9, 1831, of Scottish ancestry. His family came to Canada when he was about twelve years of age, settling near Fergus, Ont., where his youth was spent. He experienced all the hardships of pioneer life before beginning his education for the ministry at University College and Knox College, Toronto.

In 1856 Dr. McMullen was ordained into the Presbyterian ministry and accepted a call to Millbank, where he spent four years. He accepted a call to Knox Church, Woodstock, and ministered there for forty-six years, retiring in 1906.

IRAK IS NOW LEAGUE MEMBER

Canadian Press

Geneva, Oct. 3.—Irak became a member of the League of Nations today and at the same time attained sovereign independent statehood by release from its status as a mandate country.

As it was the first mandated territory to be graduated into statehood since the League was formed, the precedent was historic and was augmented by Irak's ancient history which, according to tradition, began with the Garden of Eden.

The chief importance of Irak is its vast oil fields, control of which has been the cause of fierce rivalry by the world's powerful petroleum interests.

THEY ARE VOTING IN SOUTH HURON TO-DAY

Horse, foot, and artillery of both the major political parties have been engaged in the federal by-election in South Huron which will be settled to-day. Five cabinet ministers of the present government and as many ex-ministers of the past administration, including Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, have taken a vigorous part in the battle.

The electorate of South Huron totals 14,400 and early estimates suggest that a very large percentage of these voters will turn out and mark their ballots. It is the first federal contest since the last session of Parliament and it follows that both government and opposition attach more than ordinary importance to the result in view of the present economic condition of the country.

This by-election was occasioned by the death of Mr. T. McMillan, who had represented the constituency since 1925. In that year his majority was 253, in 1926, the contest brought on by the defeat of the short-lived Meighen government, when the constitutional issue took precedence over everything else, Mr. McMillan's majority rose to 1,153. In 1930, when the King government was defeated, his majority was 349. It will thus be seen that the electors of South Huron did not think it was time for a change. Mr. McMillan, by the way, was a successful farmer, a lecturer on rural subjects, and a frequent contributor to agricultural journals.

To-day's contest is between William H. Goulding, foreman of a Seaforth machine shop and nine times mayor of that town, who will carry the Liberal banner, and Louis H. Rader, a successful farmer of Hay Township, who hopes to win the seat for the government.

One of the features of the campaign, described as one of such vigor and effort as Huron county has never witnessed before, has been an attempt by certain sections of the government press to drag in the recent Imperial Economic Conference and Canadian and British reactions to the agreements entered into at that gathering. The Conservative London Free Press, for example, referred to the "English free trader" still clinging to "his idols," which made this by-election "of the utmost importance." As The Toronto Globe pointedly reminded The Free Press, however, the Ottawa conference was a trade parley and not a political parley.

The voters in South Huron who mark their ballots to-day have before them the record of the present administration at Ottawa since it took office more than two years ago. During the campaign they have been reminded of the fact that although Mr. Bennett was going to end unemployment at once, there are four times as many idle workers in Canada than there were in the early fall of 1930. Upon that record, therefore, not upon anything said or done at the Ottawa conference, or since, is the fate of South Huron's representation in the House of Commons being decided to-day.

IRISH FREE STATE'S GOVERNOR-GENERAL RESIGNS

Another incident affecting the relations between Great Britain and the Irish Free State occurred to-day when Governor-General James McNeill tendered his resignation to the King.

It will be recalled that at the time the Free State government's bill for the abolition of the oath of allegiance from the constitution was before the Dail the Governor was snubbed on several occasions by Free State republican ministers. One notable incident was when the ministers left a public affair as the orchestra played "God Save the King." To several government functions in connection with the Eucharistic Congress last June no invitations were sent to the Governor-General. Against this treatment Mr. McNeill protested and considerable correspondence has been exchanged between himself and Mr. de Valera.

Evidently there is a good deal going on in the Irish Free State the nature of which we can only guess. In a speech at Ballinrobe yesterday, Mr. P. J. Ruttledge, Free State Minister of Lands and Fisheries, said "we do not stand for republicanism because it appeals to the sentiment of the people, but because we believe it is best and will give the greatest freedom, happiness and contentment to our land." At Navan, Dr. James Ryan, Minister of Agriculture, who was one of the Free State delegates to the Ottawa conference, said the Free State's campaign to sell dairy products in Germany was continuing and that better prices were being obtained than in Great Britain. He also declared that if the Free State succeeded in growing sufficient grain for its own use, this agricultural wealth will be almost as much as the whole Free State cattle exports.

What most people in Britain are probably thinking about the relations between the government at Westminster and the government at Dublin is that Mr. de Valera and his colleagues ought to say exactly what they intend to do and do it. If the Free State government is quite sure the Free State would much rather be out of the empire than in it, it could soon put the matter squarely up to the people of that part of Ireland and obtain their opinion. As far as business between the two countries is concerned, both are treating one another as foreign nations. Under present conditions —especially in view of the resignation of the Governor-General—the remaining ties seem to be of very little importance.

It will be interesting to watch what the government will do about filling the post now vacated by Mr. McNeill. Although the Free State Senate has held up the legislation removing the oath provision from the constitution, the Dail approved it. A curious anomaly will be furnished if Mr. de Valera nominates another representative for the King in a Dominion which is supposed to want to become a republic almost at once.

FOLLOWING LINE OF THE LEAST RESISTANCE

According to a press report the provincial government is meditating a further cut in the salaries of civil servants, and the knife is being sharpened for use in that direction. That, of course, would be much easier than the reduction of the ministry and the Legislature, departmental reorganization, the abolition of the costly and wasteful patronage system in the purchases of supplies, and other major economies which should be adopted now, but which it has been decided to "postpone" until next year—which means never, of course, as far as the present government is concerned.

The civil servants are a defenceless lot, and it is no trick to lop off their salaries. It is another thing altogether when it comes to lopping off two or three ministers and a score of legislators, and abolishing the pickings of the patronage hounds in the purchase of supplies, especially those supplies which are required for the unemployment relief camps. That would call for a real display of backbone, while there is nothing heroic in attacking the salaries of the civil servants who have no opportunity of fighting back.

The government apparently is cherishing the delusion that the public will applaud it for its minor economies, while it defers those major economies about which there has been so much talk and so little action. We have been told that by the major economies it would be possible to save some several millions of dollars; we know that if party patronage were eliminated from the purchase of supplies the treasury would save a fortune. All this is to be deferred until next spring, according to the Premier's announcement supported by the executive of the British Columbia Conservative Association—and everybody knows, or ought to know, that this means that nothing will be done.

So in the meantime, according to report, as an earnest that the government is really economizing, that it has turned over a new leaf, it proposes to cut the salaries of the civil servants—who dare not object for fear of losing their jobs to the many importunate applicants whose names are on the patronage list of the party associations. Easy does it, boys!

UP TO CANADIAN EXPORTERS TO PERFECT SALESMANSHIP

While most of the newspapers of Great Britain continue to discuss the results of the Ottawa conference from various points of view, and continue to speculate upon the amount of the trade benefits for the empire that will follow, the Prince of Wales, often described as Britain's foremost traveling salesman, is checking over the economic conditions of northern Europe—with the general object of working up a greater demand for British goods.

An Associated Press dispatch from Stockholm on Saturday reported the arrival there of the Prince by train from a visit to Denmark, where he spent a week familiarizing himself with trade conditions, in connection with an exposition at Copenhagen of British export products. His visit to Stockholm, says the same dispatch, will be marked by a "Buy British Goods Week" programme, arranged by a joint committee of British and Swedish business men. It will also be remembered that the Prince of Wales headed the delegation of Old Country exporters and exhibitors to the British industrial exhibition at Buenos Aires last year and performed the opening ceremony.

The point about the renewed activity of Britain's royal "commercial traveler" is that it furnishes a reminder to Canadian exporters that if they desire to reap the full benefit of the trade agreements entered into at the Ottawa gathering, they will have to infuse still greater vigor into their salesmanship methods and convince the people of the countries with which they want to increase their business that it is to their advantage to buy Canadian-made goods. The industrial establishments of Canada should be equal to the occasion. Their displays were a revelation to the millions who visited the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley in 1924.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TWO NATIONS CLAIM THOSE ICY MOUNTAINS
The Cleveland Plain Dealer

It is hard to realize that Denmark and Norway are desperately in earnest in their quarrel over Greenland. The Hague Court considers the question so important that it has advanced it for special consideration.

Denmark, of course, has long been in possession of Greenland, but for all this her historical claim is not of the best. She acquired Greenland as well as Iceland when Norway was united to the Danish crown, and when Norway was separated Denmark, retained both islands. Iceland, inhabited by descendants of Norwegian vikings, has achieved independence but Greenland, inhabited almost solely by Eskimos, has been retained by Denmark and fettered by strict trade monopoly.

It is on the east coast, the most forbidding face of the huge Arctic continent, that the Norwegians have established posts which the Danes threaten to drive out. The Norwegians claim that before they came the regions occupied last year and this year were a no-man's land which Denmark had scarcely even explored.

The mineral wealth of Greenland is unquestioned, and both Denmark and Norway have become alive to Greenland's importance as a base on the most practicable transatlantic air route.

Loose Ends

A big day for this column—as you will see if you look below—for a great secret is revealed at last—and the wretched truth is out.

By H. B. W.

THIS IS a big day for me. I am going to have my picture in the paper. As you read this you will find, as you glance down the column (provided the printers don't weaken at the last minute and remove it) that my picture is in the paper already. Examine it carefully. You are looking at a great man. The picture makes me look so great, indeed, that I hardly recognize myself. But then, I was younger when it was taken back in the fall of 1864, and looked livelier because there was no depression here and few of the other advantages of civilization.

YOU WILL wonder at my lack of taste in publishing my picture in this column. It rather seems like taking advantage of the fact that I can put any rubbish in here without protest from above. A variety of rubbish has appeared from time to time, but at least I have never inflicted my photograph on you before. You see, I have a reason for publishing it. Privately I may tell you that my real reason is not known to the editors of this paper. The editors of this paper have been bothered for a long time by foolish virgins and aged doters who wanted to know my name and what I looked like. One lady wrote from Los Angeles only yesterday and said she was sure she knew me here forty-two years ago when I was barely middle-aged. She said she could tell by the way I wrote; which indicates that my writing must appear rather more feeble than even I had imagined. Anyway, the editors of this paper, to save themselves further trouble, said I had better publish my picture in this column and have done with it. They even went so far as to supply the picture. But my private reason, as I say, is something different entirely. My private reason is that I just wanted to have my picture in the paper.

YES, FOOLISH as it may seem, I have always wanted to see myself in the paper. I am looking forward to to-night, when I can see my picture looking at me from the printed page with a friendly and majestic look. I think it will be a wonderful feeling. I have always envied men like Premier Tolmie and Maurice Chevalier, who could see their pictures in The Colonist at least once a week for merely doing their job. Here I have been doing my job all these years and never once has anyone put my picture in the paper for it. I think it is a gross discrimination in favor of Premier Tolmie. I have often thought that if my picture were put in the paper while I ran the government, and the premier's were left out while he wrote this column, what a wonderful thing it would be for the country. What happened to this column would be no great matter.

AT LAST I have caught up with the premier. I have had my picture in the paper too, and the public knows what I look like. I think I look pretty fine, don't you? But before I go on and tell you some more about my picture I had better insert it right here lest it be shoved too far down in the column and lose some of its importance. Well, for better or for worse, and though you probably aren't in the least interested, here I am:

H. B. W. (Himself)

NOW THIS is no ordinary picture. It has a certain historical importance because it was taken on the eve of a battle. I think it was the Battle of Sedan, but it may have been Gettysburg, or perhaps the raid on Pete the Greek's place on Wharf Street. I am not sure which, since my memory of the affair is somewhat clouded, but it was a battle all right. I came through alive, but I didn't look much like the picture the next day. Of course, I have changed quite a lot since then anyway. That fine imperial mustache was modeled on the fashion of the Third Napoleon. Some people said that mine was better than Napoleon's, but I wouldn't go that far. I never was vainglorious over my masterpiece, as many fellows were in those hairy times. I always said it was just a good average home-made mustache for a plain man of simple tastes. Unfortunately one side was sliced off in a duel and I had to remove the remainder to retain my balance as I walked down the street. I mean, with only one side of a mustache such as we wore in those days a man was inclined to stagger. Sometimes we even staggered with both sides intact, but, as I tell you, mustaches were larger and harder to bear in those times; and, incredible as it may seem to you, the beer was actually made for the deliberate purpose of being consumed by human beings. But those were rough frontier days and I will not pollute you with any further account of them. I have reformed and grown weaker with the beer.

IN MY prime, as you will note, I was quite a dashing fellow. I am too old to do much dashing now. I haven't enjoyed a dash for a long time. I was even considered devilish at the time that picture was taken. Indeed, with my mustache and goatee I was frequently taken for Mephistopheles in "Faust," but I didn't care, and Mephistopheles never made any complaint either. With the mustache I have also given up the monocle which you see dangling elegantly across my solar plexus, and I have a new overcoat now, too. The hat I won in an election bet with Mr. Bowser in 1896, but he took his loss like a man. He never grudged me that hat.

POLITICS, OF course, was a more generous game in those days. We kept our politicians then in the old red, wooden Parliament Buildings which we called the Bird Cages, because we used to say the inmates were all cuckoo. That was just a little frontier joke we had in those times, which you probably won't understand, for nowadays, of course, politicians are accorded a deep respect which they did not enjoy then. You see, at that time anybody could be a politician or a cabinetminister if he wanted to. It was the habit of old Joe Martin, in forming his governments, to ask in the first man he saw as he walked over town from the Bird Cages. The only reason he never asked me was that he had always acquired a full cabinet before he reached the street where I lived. If I had moved a few blocks south no doubt I should have been a famous man by this time. Most of the business of the country was done thus openly and above board; mostly on a damp mahogany board about four and a half feet from the floor with a brass rail just in front of it. Statecraft was wetter then, I admit, but it never got quite all wet, as occasionally occurs in these times. Well, I would like to tell you more about myself and my era, but perhaps it would be bad taste. This much must serve to convince people who have been writing in to this paper that I am not their long-lost sweetheart after all. That is too bad, but I fear it is too late now and that I am too old to do anyhing about it.

INTEREST CHARGES ON OVERDUE TAXES

To the Editor:—The above subject is one which has engaged the writer's attention, as well, perhaps, as that of many others for several years at this period, but so far as he knows no action has been taken to remedy the state of affairs that will be shown in this letter.

It would be very interesting to learn what rate of interest the city may legally charge on overdue taxes. Presumably 8 per cent per annum, as stated in the heading shown on "Notices of Annual Rates and Taxes," but this statement—although in part correct—I will endeavor to show is grossly innacurate in the main and a hardship on the conscientious taxpayer. In fact, we have presented the paradox that "the more conscientious the taxpayer, the greater is the hardship imposed."

City taxes are due on August 15, but —through the graciousness perhaps of the tax collector—must be paid by not later than October 1. After this date the following charges (very properly called surcharge on the tax notice —for definition of which refer to any reliable dictionary—Nuttall's in particular states "overcharge beyond what is just") are levied, vs. October 2, 2 per cent; November 2, 2 per cent; December 2, 2 per cent; December 30, 2 per cent. A total of 8 per cent for a period of three months, thus making the rate of interest to be 32 per cent per annum. One does not require a university education to calculate that at the presumed legal rate of 8 per cent per annum, the amount of interest required to be paid for that period would be 2 per cent only, and not 8 per cent as is actually charged. Now, sir, the writer is of the opinion that did the proprietors of any private business house collect such an exorbitant rate of interest on their overdue accounts, they would be liable to be summoned on a charge of extortion. Even banks and real estate agencies—who are proverbially notorious for charging interest on accounts—would seriously hesitate before attempting such a practice.

In my preamble I stated that we have presented the paradox that "the more conscientious the taxpayer, the greater is the hardship imposed." I will, therefore, now endeavor to prove this statement. The foregoing deals with the position of a taxpayer "paying up" before the end of the penalty period, vs. December 30. What is the position of he who pays his taxes after that period, say on January 30? In view of the statement shown in the heading of "Notice of Annual Rates and Taxes" that "interest will be charged on arrears at the rate of 8 per cent per annum" (not, as I have shown, 8 per cent for three months) and also the fact that the limit (8 per cent) having been reached before December 30 the tax collector has no alternative but to comply with the "printed" statement mentioned.

Any High School student of average intelligence will agree with the writer that interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum is 2-3 of 1 per cent per month. Taxes paid on January 30, being five months in arrears, the amount of interest that may legally be collected would be 5 2-3 of 1 per cent, i.e., 3 1-3 per cent.

The hardship mentioned is surely by this time quite apparent. The person who pays his taxes at the end of December is charged 8 per cent interest; whilst the one who pays a month later is charged only 3 1-3 per cent. Again, the person who pays on April 30—three months still later—pays only 6 per cent interest. Even if these late payers are charged the full 8 per cent they yet have an advantage in the matter of delay.

Realizing that the foregoing may, perhaps, have the appearance of mere conjecture, I will conclude with concrete evidence in support of my argument. On the "Notice of Annual Rates and Taxes" for 1931 the penalty dates stated are as follows: October 2, 2 per cent; October 16, 2 per cent; November 1, 2 per cent, and December 1, 2 per cent, making a total of 8 per cent for a period of two months, or a rate of 48 per cent per annum (1930 was even worse, being 4 per cent on October 1 and 4 per cent on October 15. Total of 8 per cent for two weeks, or a rate of 208 per cent per annum). To resume, being unable to pay my taxes before the first penalty date I was yet fortunate (?) enough to pay some on October 16 (second penalty date), and was charged only 4 per cent for a period of fourteen days. There being twenty-six such periods in a year, the rate of interest paid was 4%x26, or 104 per cent per annum.

Here are the figures: Taxes, $66.25; 4 per cent penalty, $2.65. Now let us check my plan of 104 per cent rate of interest. First, 104 per cent of $66.25 is $68.90; second, $2.65 for fourteen days, $2.65x26 per year, $68.90. At the presumed legal rate of interest, mentioned above, of 8 per cent per annum the amount that I should have paid for this period would be 22 cents at the very most.

I thank you very much for allowing me to utilize so much of your valuable time and space in your colmuns and trust that same will be productive of a public benefit.

JOKERS TAKE SOCCER GAME

Brightened by a gay bit of fist-work between Carmichael of the Jokers and Wallace of the Maccabees in the last minute of play, the First Division football game at the Royal Athletic Park, put Jokers into the League leadership. They won 4 to 0, with Telfer, their centre, doing the hat-trick with three tallies in the second half. About sixty people saw the fixture. Honors were even between Carmichael and Wallace, who settled their argument by arbitration when they were chased from the field.

Jokers had a slight edge as they opened ding-dong play in the first half. Once they missed a beautiful chance when Farquhar, in the Maccabees net, punched a floater to one of their forwards fifteen feet out. The attempt for goal was wide.

Fifteen minutes from the start "Shorty" Collins worked in from the left wing for a pretty counter which he lifted into the corner of the net from near the goal line. It was a smart bit of football.

For the remainder of the first period both teams shot long and wide without endangering either goal. Following the interval both teams started ragged. Telfer nearly got through to an open field, but was stopped by a nice check by Cook.

Twelve minutes from the rest period, Telfer took a pass from Hillier on the right wing, trapped it and shot without interference into the net for the Jokers' second tally.

The Maccabees came back a little stronger and several times got down to the Jokers' goal without doing any damage.

About twenty minutes after his first goal, Telfer took a good pass from Stofer to drive in another tally after the Jokers had been kicking around the Maccabees net for some time.

Two minutes from time, Telfer took a pass from Carmichael from the right wing and banged home the fourth and final counter.

Interest swung from the ball game to the miniature fight between Carmichael and Wallace, who were chased from the field just before the final whistle blew.

LOMSKI WINS TAME BATTLE

Aberdeen Heavyweight Gains Knockout Win Over Ben Shaves in Third Round

In a tame bout that proved a disappointment to the large turnout of fans, Leo Lomski, Aberdeen heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Ben Shavez, Los Angeles, who is called heavyweight champion of the U.S. marines, in the third round of the main event on Saturday's fight card at the Pacific Stadium's arena. In the eight-round semi-windup, Red Tingley, San Francisco heavyweight, decisioned Pat Murphy, Portland, who substituted for Denny Lenhart, who was unable to appear owing to an injured hand.

Except for a few seconds in the first round, Shavez never looked in Lomski's class. He was unable to keep away from the deadly left and right crosses of the Aberdeen scrapper, and it was soon apparent the fight would not go far. In the first minute of the bout Shavez caught Lomski on the point of the chin with a right cross and Leo went down for a seven count, but he was up and ready for action just as fresh as ever. A right cross to Shavez's nose started the claret flowing near the end of the round.

In the closing seconds of the second round Lomski floored Shavez with a left cross to the chin, but the bell sounded at the count of five. Leo appeared to hurt his left hand on the blow, but apparently was all right to open the third. Lomski went right after his man and a series of lefts and rights to the body put Shavez down and his seconds threw in the towel.

TINGLEY WINS

In the semi-windup, Tingley caught Murphy on the jaw with a hefty right hook in the first round and he went down for a seven count, but managed to keep clear until the bell. For the remainder of the fight Murphy was just about able to hold his own against his lanky opponent, although Tingley opened up several times to punish his shorter opponent with heavy punches.

The bout between Pat O'Hannigan, Los Angeles, and Bobby Nelson, Spokane, proved a dismal failure. Nelson looked like it was his first time in the ring. He had no defence and didn't seem to know how to throw a decent punch. After Hannigan had floored him twice the bout was stopped by the referee.

In the opening bout between Danny Pastroe, Victoria, and Claire Godfrey, Los Angeles, the fans saw the most action all evening. This pair proved willing sluggers and plenty tough. In the closing stages of the final round Pastroe caught Godfrey with a hard body punch and he went down for the count.

The bouts were refereed by Billy and Al Davies.

FIRES LESS THAN HALF

Forest Loss Unusually Low This Year Due to Wet Nature of Summer

British Columbia's losses by forest fires in the 1932 season have been abnormally low as a result of the generally wet summer. Compared with last year, less than half the number of total fires occurred and the extent of damage is much lower than fifty per cent of the 1931 loss.

Figures have not yet been compiled by the forestry branch except in regard to the number of fires, which follow: 1932, 1,189; 1931, 2,518.

The 1931 fires covered 994,979 acres, destroying 210,173,000 board feet of timber. Stumpage loss was estimated at $624,020 and damage to logging equipment was placed at $325,305.

GREAT WEST MAN RETIRES

J. C. Wilson, Manager of Local Insurance Office, to Leave This Month

After eighteen years with the Great West Life Assurance Company's office here, J. C. Wilson, local manager, will retire this month. He will leave the office on October 16 and with Mrs. Wilson, will make an extended visit to England, traveling by way of the Panama Canal.

J. R. Nicholson, of the Regina agency of the company, will succeed Mr. Wilson. Mr. Nicholson is expected here in about two weeks.

Mr. Wilson, whose retirement is due to ill-health, has made for himself an enviable record in life insurance circles. He was born in Walkerton, in Bruce County, Ont., and for a number of years was with the Merchants' Bank in Toronto. He then joined his uncle, Archdale Wilson, in the well-known drug business of Hamilton, Ont. Following this he was connected with the Empire Loan Co. of Winnipeg, and for this firm he traveled extensively in this country, selling stocks and bonds, and also made several journeys to England and Scotland, where he placed a large amount of debentures.

Reaching Victoria in 1914, Mr. Wilson joined the sales staff of the Great West Life, under the late J. Burtt Morgan, and at the latter's death was appointed city manager. Since then, the business production of the company has grown remarkably, so that in 1921 the Victoria office was changed from a sub office under Vancouver to a regular branch office. The annual production of the local branch under Mr. Wilson's direction has increased seven or eight times, until at the present time the Victoria office has a larger per capita business in force than any other branch.

MORE WINTER TRAVEL NOW

Alvin Weingand of Del Monte Says Interchange of Travel Is Rapidly Developing

One Out of Every Five Visitors at Famous California Hotel Comes to B.C.

Travel to Vancouver Island and other parts of British Columbia is becoming a habit with Californians, according to Alvin C. Weingand, assistant manager of the Hotel Del Monte, Del Monte, California, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day looking over the British Columbia territory.

He also points to the corresponding movement of travel from British Columbia southward and predicts a continuance of this interchange of travel in the future.

"One out of five people who come to Del Monte eventually make their way to British Columbia," said Mr. Weingand. "The members of the movie colony at Hollywood, I find, display a decided preference for Vancouver Island when they are able to get away from the studios.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

"Within the last year or two there has been a steady holiday migration from California to this territory," he added. "It is the desire to see something different, and for the same reason you people make frequent treks to the south."

Mr. Weingand said he found general business conditions on the "up."

"There has been a much better feeling in California since the beginning of August," he said. "When I left Del Monte, about the middle of last month, we were getting a large number of inquiries for the winter season."

Mr. Weingand said new business was being attracted by reduced rates and they were meeting the exchange, which was a factor in inducing Canadians to visit California.

WINTER SPORTS

Sportsmen and travelers in British Columbia, Mr. Weingand said, would be interested in the winter sports season planned at Del Monte.

The polo season is under way and will continue until late next spring. The Monterey club is putting on a series of low-goal matches for visiting players.

The holiday tournament over the Christmas and New Year seasons has always been an interesting attraction in the south.

Del Monte, with five championship golf courses, goes in strong for the ancient game. All these courses are within a radius of three and a half miles of Del Monte.

The gold vase competition and the Washington birthday tournament at Pebble Beach, where the United States Amateur was played in 1929, will be held from February 19 to 22, and is attracting a representative entry. The Pebble Beach women's championship is set for March 15 to 19.

Racing has been revived at Del Monte with meets staged in the spring and fall, Mr. Weingand states. The Pacific Coast Steeplechasing and Racing Association has tentatively set February 19-20 for the Del Monte meet.

Mr. Weingand has been in Vancouver for the last ten days and expects to remain in Victoria a short time.

NO COMMENT ON P.G.E. PLANS

Premier Met Syndicate in Vancouver Last Week to Talk Terms

On his return to the city from a tour through the interior, Premier Tolmie declined to comment on negotiations for sale of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, although admitting he met representatives of one syndicate in Vancouver last week

The Premier found plenty of work waiting for him and varying views on his union government proposals. Several large Conservative associations have swung in behind his union plan while other sections of the electorate are against it. In the interior, the Premier said, the factions were ready to call a political truce and get down to united action to solve the country's troubles.

The Premier fulfilled several speaking engagements while on his tour.

Royal Oak

Eight tables of five hundred were in play at Royal Oak hall on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Royal Oak Women's Institute. Hostesses were Mrs. H. H. Reid, Mrs. Victor Robinson, Mrs. Pettit and Mrs. Polybank. Prizes were won by Mrs. Polybank and Mr. Milne, Mrs. Hewett and Mrs. Pettit, Mrs. Grieve and Mr. Pettit.

A concert and dance will be given in the hall on Thursday by the Royal Oak Women's Institute and the ladies of St. Michael's W. A., followed by a well arranged programme.

The Women's Institute will hold an old-time dance in the hall on Friday.

Gordon Thorpe, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Thorpe, West Road, has left for Guelph, Ont., to attend the agricultural college.

"A few months ago I had pains in the center of my back, I also had nervous headaches and poor appetite. I took two bottles of the 'Prescription' and have had no trouble since."

Governor-General and Premier Bennett Sponsors at Ottawa Ceremony

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—William Richard Bennett Julian Vere Herridge, infant son of Major W. H. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States, and Mrs. Herridge, sister of Canada's Prime Minister, was christened Sunday at Chalmers United Church. Rev. John W. Woodside, the pastor, officiated.

The Earl of Bessborough, and Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett acted as sponsors. The baby boy, dressed in a robe of white, was attended only by his parents and the sponsors, as he was administered the first sacrament of the Christian faith.

Although quiet and self possessed during the initial part of the ceremony, the Prime Minister's nephew was apparently a little perturbed on his first appearance before a large audience and protested in baby fashion. He was speedily lulled to serenity, however, in the security of Mrs. Herridge's arms.

Lord and Lady Bessborough presented the baby with an Irish silver cup. Lord and Lady Byng also sent a silver cup. The two gifts of the Prime Minister were a seventeenth century tankard and a Bible bound in crimson leather.

e digestibility of nuts is a much- ssed subject. Nut oils are not considered indigestible, but, like all fats, they take time to digest. Finely chopped and ground nuts and nut butters are more easily digested than whole meats. Thorough mastication is necessary if full value is derived from nuts and unless both children and adults are willing to do this, it is advisable to use the ground products.

Chestnuts are exceedingly starchy and are appropriately served with meat as a stuffing or as a vegetable. The raw starch is difficult to digest, but roasted or boiled chestnuts become more digestible.

With theexception of chestnuts, approximately one-half ounce of shelled nuts supply 100 calories of energy value. One whole ounce of chestnuts is required for 100 calories. To be specific, 12 almonds, 2 Brazil nuts, 20 single peanuts, 12 pecans and 8 to 16 English walnuts each add 100 calories.

NEVER TIRES COMING HERE

Mrs. E. W. Miller-Mills, Novelist, Selects Victoria As World Beauty Spot

Hails From Chicago, But Remains There Only Long Enough to Pay Taxes

Knowing the world well, having seen every place worth while, Mrs. Edward W. Miller-Mills, globe trotter, novelist and magazine writer, who sailed Saturday by the Ss. President Jefferson for the Orient, maintains that Victoria is one of the most attractive cities she has ever visited.

"This is one of the most beautiful spots in the world," said Mrs. Miller-Mills. "I never tire of coming back here."

The novelist, who writes under the pen name of Marion McClelland, chatted in the smoking room of the President Jefferson and spoke of her travels. She has visited China four times and knows India and Central Africa intimately.

NOVELS PUBLISHED

Author of "Kaleema" and "The Tin Shawl," the last named novel published in London with an Egyptian background, Mrs. Miller-Mills remarked that she was not particularly interested at this time in color for a new novel. She admitted, however, that in the course of her travels she stored away colorful material for future use.

On her present tour she may wander on to Peiping and possibly go into Manchuria. She has no detailed itinerary mapped out. On one of her visits to india she drove through the Khyber Pass into Afghanistan. She may visit India again on her way home. The country interests her deeply.

Mrs. Miller-Mills has circled the globe three times. Her home is in Chicago, but she says she only calls there long enough to pay her taxes.

Keating

A children's party was held on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Michell, East Saanich Road, in honor of the sixth birthday of their son, Maurice. Tea was served, the decorated birthday cake having six candles holding the place of honor on the tea table. Those present were: Margaret Burnett, Teresa Constable, Tillie Patterson, Wilmer and Vernon Michell, May and Doreen John, Ronald Bickford, Sammie, George and Alec Patterson, Baby Albert Hafer, Kenneth Quest, Gordon and Joe John, Mrs. J. J. Young, Victoria; Mrs. Bennet, Mrs. W. D. Michell, Mrs. Quest, Mrs. John, Mrs. T. Michell, Mrs. A. Hafer, Mrs. J. Kinsman and Mrs. G. Bickford.

At the South Saanich United Church yesterday morning the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hafer was christened by Rev. Thos. Keyworth. The baby was named Albert Merlyn.

Harvest festival service will be held in South Saanich United Church next Sunday at 11.15 o'clock.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MOTHERS USUALLY TAKE WRONG STEP IN CORRECTING ACIDITY

The term, acidity, is often misused. Usually what mothers mean by saying that baby suffers from acidity is that when he spits up his milk, it is sour. This is a perfectly natural state for the milk. When food enters the stomach it is churned about with the digestive juices, which are highly acid, until it is reduced to an acid fluid. Then, and then only, the little gate (pylorus) from the stomach into the small intestines opens and begins to let the food through. The use of lactic acid or of lemon juice in milk contributes to the acidity of baby's stomach, which is not always prepared to take care of cow's milk.

NATURAL ACIDITY

If the baby spits up his milk immediately after eating, it will still be sweet. But if he spits up excessive amounts of milk after the process of digestion has started, it will most certainly be an acid fluid.

Real hyper-acidity is an extremely grave condition, but when a mother glibly states, "My baby is suffering from over-acidity," it is usually not nearly so serious as it would seem.

READ CAREFULLY

After digestion, foods may have either an acid or an alkaline ash. It is a balance between alkali and acid ash foods in the diet which keeps the system mildly alkaline, just on the borderline of acidity. The main foods in the baby's diet which are alkaline after digestion are citrus fruits (oranges, grapefruit and lemons), tomato juice and vegetables. Read that carefully because I haven't made a mistake. The acid ash foods are, in the main, cereals, breadstuffs and meats. Thus, if baby's diet is to be healthfully adjusted, it must contain not only milk (considered a bland food, being neither predominantly acid or alkaline), but orange juice, cereals and vegetables.

What the mother usually needs to do when baby is excreting an extremely acid urine, which causes his skin to become red and sore, is to make sure that he isn't being overfed, that he has a balance of both the acid and alkaline ash foods, and that he is getting sufficient water to drink.

COMMON ERROR

I have found that mothers take out the alkaline ash foods from the diet and then say proudly, "Baby has had a very strong urine and so I've stopped giving him orange juice." Instead it is possible, if everything else in the diet is right, that the orange juice needs to be increased and vegetables added to the diet. Perhaps a full list of the alkaline and acid ash foods in baby's diet will help mother to determine what is wrong when she thinks her child is suffering from acidity. This list is appended to the leaflet on "Ammoniacal Urine." Any reader may obtain this leaflet by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with each request to me in care of this department. Please ask for the leaflet by name.

Successful Tea Helps Celebrate Animals' Day

Evidence of the widespread interest in the cause of animals was forthcoming on Saturday afternoon when an unusually large number of guests attended the silver tea held under the auspices of the local Anti-vivisection Society in celebration of the World Day for Animals.

There were stalls of superfluities and home-made candy. Miss N. Wyles and Mrs. L. Sweeney selling the superfluities and Mrs. K. Skilton and Miss Skilton selling the sweets. Madame Glushko was in charge of a guessing contest and tea was under the supervision of Mrs. F. Fowles. Madame Vivenot gave a delightful talk on "St. Francis of Assisi" and the significance of the day.

A musical programme was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. W. D. Todd singing two numbers, Madame Griffaton contributing two charming solos. Mr. G. Reid played pianoforte selections, which were much enjoyed. Miss Shrapnel's orchestra contributed musical selections which added much to the pleasure of the afternoon. The autographed photograph of George Arliss, a life member of the local society, was awarded to E. G. Maynard.

Lists can be obtained at the floral stores. Entries should be made with the secretary, F. E. Boulter, 538 Obed Avenue, by Thursday. Mr. Boulter's phone number is E 8490.

CHAPTER I

In one of the dull shabby thoroughfares which lie between Haymarket station and the south side of Edinburgh there is a row of tall, well-built houses, once the residences of substantial citizens, but now divided into flats, and let at a moderate rental.

Although undoubtedly fallen a little from its former estate, there still clings to Ardmillan Street that air of gentility so much sought after by that class whose means do not match their pride. In their eyes one of the chief recommendations of such a thoroughfare (of which there are many in Edinburgh) is the absence of shops. It is astonishing how the mere mention of a shop is sufficient to ban an otherwise desirable street in the estimation of some. The dullness of Ardmillan Street is irreproachable, but so favorite a place of abode does it seem that there is seldom an unoccupied house. It ascends in a gradual slope from the busy Haymarket corner (and is lost ultimately in the labrinth of streets which lie thickly about Fountainbridge. From the windows of the top flats of the tenements an excellent view can be obtained of certain parts of the city, and on clear days the outline of the lion of Arthur's Seat can be discerned. But the view directly upon the street is depressing enough.

On a grey, rather damp November afternoon, a girl was sitting in the recess of one of the storm windows in the roof of a house in Ardmillan Street; a table, on which stood a sewing machine, was before her. The room had the appearance of a workroom, though no business was supposed to be carried on in that street. The straightened means of the family to which the girl belonged, however, necessitated some effort, and they were too proud to make it publicly.

Their aunt, who kept a baby-linen warehouses and fancy-work emporium in Hanover Street, gave her nieces a good deal of work, though she secretly despised them for what she termed "their silly pride." She was their mother's only sister, however, and though unmarried herself had in a manner mothered them since their mother's death. Their father was a teacher of mathematics in a boys' school, one of the old-fashioned private schools which latterly have fallen on evil days.

In fact, Morison did much hard work at a salary which a decent tradesman would have scorned. His only son was a teacher likewise, but, sickened with the outlook, had emigrated to New Zealand. Only the father and the two girls were left, and they lived in a house too highly rented for their means, and endured a great many sordid anxieties which were perfectly unnecessary, and might have been avoided, had they been content to live in a small house and dispense with what they called appearances.

Morison in his pride was aided and abetted by his elder daughter Jean, a tall, black-browed young woman, who kept her young sister in a wholesome state of subjection, in spite of the fact that Lily, being much more clever and artistic with her fingers, was the chief wage-earner.

It was Lily who was bending over the work in the dull light of that November afternoon, and it was evident from her looks that she was in no happy frame of mind. Her face was pale, too pale for beauty, though her features were very good, and there was a great sweetness of expression, also a kind of appealing child-like prettiness which often struck casual observers, and made them feel interested in her for the moment.

She had a great quantity of very fair, soft hair, naturally curling about her brows, which with her soft appealing eyes of a deep blue color made rather a striking picture. But it was a face that needed brightness, color and life to bring out its full charm, and all these were certainly lacking at the moment.

Quite evidently she was not interested in her work. She threaded the machine needle, placed the long white seam ready for its operation, then throwing the window up as high as it would go, she leaned out over the roof as if desperate for a breath of fresh air. Her real object, however, was to try and see the street below.

By craning her neck she could just catch a glimpse of a hundred yards of pavement at the far end, where it turned sharply into the wider thoroughfare of Haymarket. To discern people was impossible, they looked like so many small, black, moving specks.

Disappointed, she closed the window, for the blacks from the chimneys were detrimental to her delicate work, which on no account must be washed before being offered for sale. Taking off her white apron, she threw it carelessly over the machine and the billows of soft stuff lying about it, and ran downstairs.

The Morisons had two flats, if the attics could be considered as one. They were roomy places, but too near the roof to be comfortable quarters in an Edinburgh winter. By the payment of a small additional rent, Morison had secured the use of them so that the work might be kept up there, and he might not be reminded of its existence. He was abnormally sensitive regarding it, and the word work, applied to his daughters' occupation, was never mentioned in his presence.

The floor below consisted of a sitting-room, kitchen, and two small bedrooms. The sitting-room had two windows looking to the street, but had no advantage like the storm window, being set closely to the wall in the old-fashioned way. Nothing could be seen from them but the corresponding strip of dull street below.

The fire had been made up by the careful Jean before she went out. She had lately taken an afternoon engagement to teach sewing in a girls' school out Dalry way. Thus it came to pass that between the hours of two and four Lily was alone in the house every day. She was supposed to have enough work in hand to keep her fully occupied during that time; the idea of mischief did not occur to Jean. She thought her sister a very idle, impracticable sort of person, but excused her on account of her youth and her pretty face. That she could be guilty of any folly was a thought she would have dismissed from her in angry disdain. Was she not a Morison, one of the Westerlea Morisons, though fallen on evil times?

The utter and unsuspecting confidence had perhaps helped to Lily's undoing. She was either expecting someone or watching on the vague chance that someone might come. She continued to sit at the window idly, with her chin in hand, motionless, only occasionally she would give a little start of recognition to be followed by disappointment. As the clock struck three, however, there came a quick and somewhat peculiar ring at the door. She flew to open it, all her listlessness gone. A man stood on the door-mat in the dark passage—a tall young man, who, after being breathlessly assured that the coast was clear, stepped in and shut the door, and bending forward kissed the girl lightly on the forehead. But she clung to him almost sobbingly, as if her relief were too great for her words.

"I made sure you weren't coming to-day again, Gibbie, and see, it is three o'clock. Why didn't you get here sooner?"

"It's all very well, Lily," replied the man as he put off his coat and pulled his dark moustache. "You haven't the least idea of the difficulty it is for me to get off at this time. If you can't arrange so's we can meet in the evening, I fear it's all up."

"I've told you I can't get out at night, at least without telling a lot of lies, and this is the only time I can be sure of not being watched."

"And, supposing by any chance, your father or your sister should come back this afternoon," he said gloomily, as he closed the sitting-room door. "A nice mess it would be for us both."

"I shouldn't care," she said with a kind of quiet desperation. "I'm sick of all this, Gilbert. When is it going to be over?"

He sat down on the edge of the table, still tugging at his moustache, and looking the reverse of happy. He was a young man of about four-and-twenty, good looking, so far as features and figure go, and his clothes and air proclaimed him the gentleman, as understood by the society in which he moved. He was indeed exceedingly well dressed, with a somewhat foppish air. His ornaments, watchchain, studs and breastpin, were expensive, and he had a single stone diamond ring on his finger, which gleamed and flashed as his hand moved to and fro on his face.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Red Leaves

(By HOWARD R. GARIS

Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady, stood in the dining-room of the hollow stump bungalow looking at the wall. She looked at the wall so long and so hard that Uncle Wiggly asked:

"Is anything the matter, my dear?"

"Matter? What do you mean?" asked his wife as she tilted her head to one side as rabbit ladies sometimes do when they are looking in the glass at a new hat.

"I mean do you see a bug or an ant or a grasshopper or anything like that on the wall?" said Mr. Longears, trying to twinkle his pink nose sort of friendly like and conciliatory.

"Oh, no, nothing like that!" answered Mrs. Longears, with a laugh.

"Then why are you looking at the wall so hard?" went on the bunny gentleman.

"I was thinking," said his wife, "how much prettier it would look if we had a spray of autumn leaves to hang on it. If you could get me a branch of golden brown oak leaves, or some red maple leaves or perhaps some purple dogwood leaves to hang on the wall I would be all decorated for the party."

"Is anything the matter?"

"What party?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Now never mind about the party!" laughed Mrs. Longears. "I'll attend to that. The question for you to answer is, will you get me a spray of autumn leaves?"

"I will!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily solemn like, just as he did on the day he was married.

"Fine!" said Mrs. Longears. "Then I'll tell you about the party. It isn't much—just a few of the animal ladies."

"Say no more!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I know how it is. You want the bungalow to look pretty. I'll get you the leaves."

Away he hopped down the bungalow steps, over the fields and through the woods where he knew he could find many brown oak leaves, some golden yellow in color, many red maple leaves and perhaps some purple leaves of the dogwood tree.

"And I hope," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, "that the dogwood tree does not growl at me when I'm picking its leaves. I know the pussy willow bush wouldn't scratch me if this were spring and I wanted some of the little pussy twigs to put in a vase."

Happily twinkling his nose, Uncle Wiggily hopped on and on and, all of a sudden, he heard a voice calling:

"Bub! Oh, Bub, where are you? Come home, little Bub. Where is my rainbow boy?"

"Oh, Little Bub must be lost!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, for he knew this was the voice of Bub's mother calling for her little son. And when the rabbit had hopped on a little farther he saw Bub's mother standing on the woodland path.

"Oh, hello, Uncle Wiggily!" greeted the lady, who could speak and understand rabbit talk. "Hello!"

"Hello!" answered Mr. Longears.

"Have you seen Little Bub anywhere?" asked the mother.

"Not to-day," answered the rabbit. "The other day he was at my bungalow, blowing bubbles with my little rabbits. But I have not seen him today. Perhaps he has gone to school."

"No," replied Bub's mother, "he is too little to go to school. I washed him this morning and game him his breakfast, and then he ran out, shaking his golden curls, his blue eyes dancing with joy and his red cheeks looking like two apples."

"He is a regular soap bubble rainbow boy" said Uncle Wiggily, laughing.

"Yes, he is," agreed his mother. "But Little Bub is gone and I can't find him. I thought perhaps he ran over to your bungalow."

"No," said Uncle Wiggily, shaking his head, and, at the same time, his pink nose, "I haven't seen him to-day. But perhaps Little Bub is in the woods. I am going there to get my wife some autumn leaves to decorate the walls and I'll look for Little Bub."

"Please do" said his mother. So away hopped Uncle Wiggily, wondering what could have happened to Little Bub. Then, all of a sudden, the rabbit gentleman saw on the ground a pile of red leaves. There were three or four sprays of maple leaves, turned red by Jack Frost.

"Ah, here is just what I want for my wife!" said Mr. Longears. He started to pick up the sprays of red leaves when, all of a quickness, the red leaves seemed to jump up and rush at the rabbit.

"This is very strange!" said the bunny gentleman. "I wonder what this is all about. Jumping red leaves!" And to-morrow I shall tell you in the story about Uncle Wiggily's music surprise. That is if the pussy cat will give the puppy dog a necktie to wear around his collar.

Horoscope

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1932

Benefic planetary aspects dominate to-day, according to astrology. The rule is stimulating to the physical and mental energies.

The morning hours are read as favorable to all sorts of constructive work. Much building will be pushed in various cities, it is forecast.

Under this sway the stars encourage concerted efforts for the general good. It is an auspicious time for extending public improvements.

Science is subject to a remarkable rule of the stars that is believed to presage tremendous discoveries as well as remarkable inventions.

While this planetary government continues men who hold offices in the government should benefit greatly. Co-operation in progressive policies is prognosticated for the people, who will aid in forward-looking projects.

There is a sign to-day which is not encouraging to commerce. Shipping interests are under a temporary adverse sway of the stars.

This is not an auspicious day for beginning anything. It is favorable to the completion of what is well started.

Money at this time is subject to inflences supposed to be most fortunate for American investors who have been accepting heavy losses.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of much activity. Prosperity is foreseen, but surprising experiences are presaged.

Children born on this day probably will be upright in character and adaptable in habits. Many subjects of this sign gain success by steady endeavor.

Rutherford B. Hayes, nineteenth president of the United States, was born on this day, 1822. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Juliette Adam, 1836, noted writer, and Francesco Crispi, 1819, Italian statesman.

MEN PAY BILL AFTER CHASE

Vancouver, Oct. 3.—Called at 4.30 a.m. Sunday to the government liquor store at Howe and Robson Streets, police surrounded the premises and after a search discovered a tourist from Portland, Ore., hiding on the roof of the building.

Investigation disclosed that the man and a friend had obtained a meal from a Granville Street cafe and fled without paying the bill. The friend was caught by a policeman, who was called, and the man sought a hiding place on the roof to avoid capture.

The men paid the cafe account and were allowed to go with a warning.

EMPIRE TALKIE SET IN ORIENT

It took the headlines of the recent Sino-Japanese war to make Hollywood think of Manchuria.

Just how far-reaching was the effect of the Japanese invasion, even on towns outside the war zone, is now graphically pictured in "Roar of the Dragon," the new Richard Dix film now at the Empire Theatre.

With the withdrawal of Chinese troops to face a foreign foe, the small interior towns became a prey to ravaging bands of Mongol bandits. American missionary homes and colleges were ransacked. Tourists were kidnapped. Whole towns were pillaged and chaos and terror reigned.

RKO Radio Pictures has pained a vivid panorama of this condition as a background for romantic love and adventure in "Roar of the Dragon," directed on a spectacular scale by Wesley Ruggles, who made "Cimarron" such an epic.

VARSITY PULLS SURPRISE WIN

Defeat New Westminster 6 to 1 in Big Four Canadian Rugby Match

Vancouver, Oct. 3.—Springing a surprise on the grid experts, Dr. Gordon Burke's University of British Columbia Canadian football squad upset New Westminster's highly touted team to the tune of 6 to 1 in the Big Four tussle staged at Athletic Park. The students were expected to field a bunch of green lads. They did, but the green lads played like veterans and provided the spectators with perfect line and backfield work.

The well-drilled collegians, with the aid of Doug McIntyre, flashy backfield star, and Fred Bolton, diminutive half-back, staved off the threatening drives of the Royal City aggregation in every quarter. The Westminster players made ten first downs to Varsity's nil, but lacked the punch to get through the stonewall defence of the students.

VARSITY SCORES

Varsity scored in the second quarter when the students obtained possession by means of a fumble deep in the opposition's territory. George Henderson, a new recruit, darted toward the end, found it blocked and then cut back through centre to place the ball over the line. Westminster tallied in the third canto when Rich kicked to the deadline for the lone marker.

Westminster tried an aerial attack in the fourth session, but found their passes batted down by the student linesmen. The Royalites then started a victorious march down the field by means of long gains, but were stopped again by the brick wall line. Play ended in midfield with U.B.C. in possession of the ball.

NANAIMO WINS OVER ROYALS

Defeat New Westminster 3 to 1 in Coast League Football; St. Andrews Victors

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Oct. 3.—Nanaimo city soccer team trimmed New Westminster Royals 3 to 1 here yesterday in a Pacific Coast League game. The game was evenly contested in the first half, both teams attacking alternately. The Royals had the edge in the second half, and but for the fine defensive work of Edmunds, Knight and Blewitt, the score might have been different.

Nanaimo kept the lead throughout the game after Watchorn scored seven minutes after opening. Watchorn dashed through backs, heading the ball past Sanford for the first counter. After some mid-field play the Royals pressed, and Boyd in trying to clear nearly kicked through his own goal. Royals kept up the pressure and nearly scored when Turner broke away on the left wing. Nanaimo raided the visitors' goal, and after a pretty piece of play between Watchorn and Green, the latter tipped the ball past Sanford for Nanaimo's second counter.

TURNER SCORES

Kicking off, Royals ran right down field and Turner, after tricking two opponents, beat Blewitt with a hard drive. Shortly after, White, Nanaimo winger, hit the side of the net with a hard drive. Half-time found Nanaimo in the lead, 2 to 1.

On resumption of play the Royals kept the local defence busy, Blewitt making several fine spectacular saves. Nanaimo again scored when Watchorn, who had been a source of worry to visiting defence, slipped the ball to White and the winger scored Nanaimo's third goal. Royals tried hard to reduce the lead and peppered the local goal, but Blewitt and Edmunds repelled attacks repeatedly. The final whistle found the ball in mid field.

Vancouver, Oct. 3. — With Alex Boath, young former Glasgow junior, again showing his brilliant form of last week, St. Andrew's defeated St. Saviour's 3 to 1, in a Pacific Coast soccer league game here Saturday. The Saints had the game well in hand throughout, their fast, open style of play keeping the Tiger defence disorganized, and would have rolled up a much larger score but for Alsbury, Saints' goalie, who turned in a splendid game.

"BACK STREET" SETS UNUSUAL

A number of unusually interesting settings feature "Back Street," the Universal picturization of Fannie Hurst's well known novel, which is now showing at the Dominion Theatre, with Irene Dunne and John Boles in the featured roles.

Especially noteworthy is a German beer garden in Cincinnati in the days before prohibition, with patrons consuming great seidels of foaming fluid at tables under the trees, and a picturesque German band tooting out robust music for the dancers. Several sequences were shot in the famous Busch Gardens.

Another interesting "set" is an exact reproduction of Rector's famous restaurant in New York. Still another is a Cincinnati street of thirty years ago, with an automobile of the vintage of 1902 forming the centre of much of the action. There is also a view of an old-time horsecar in operation, and still other scenes at a race track. A scene of Wall Street twenty years ago is another masterpiece of screen invention. Later there is a sequence aboard a great ocean liner, after which the scene of the story is transferred to Paris. John M. Stahl directed "Back Street."

"CONGORILLA" HERE MONDAY

Revealing for the first time the secrets of that vast and unexplored Itura Forest, the land of the pygmies, in the Belgian Congo region of Africa, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's picture, the Fox production "Congorilla," which is the first all-sound film ever to come out of the wilds of the jungle, opens its local engagement to-day at the Capitol Theatre.

For seven long months the noted African explorers lived among these small, grotesque people, photographing and recording their habits, customs and tribal rites, their weird songs and dances and mode of living in their native habitat.

All in all there are about 50,000 of these strange people, according to Mr. Johnson. They all seem to be of the same tribe, although they segregate themselves into groups or clans. Each group lives within a certain bounded area, and are great respecters of boundary lines as well as of the fighting prowess of rival groups. They and they alone inhabit the dense Itura Forest, inpenetrable by the sun, and are virtually the slaves of the larger natives who live on the outskirts of this vast wilderness. The pygmies live in fear of the larger natives and come and go at the mere beck and call of the bigger people.

Also, on the same programme, is "Undesirable Lady," starring Elissa Landi and Paul Lukas.

GABLE, DAVIES AT COLUMBIA

The dramatic story of an attractive but "hardboiled" circus performer who falls in love with a modern young minister brings Marion Davies to the Columbia Theatre to-day in "Polly of the Circus," talkie verson of the Margaret Mayo stage success of some years ago.

Clark Gable, most sought-after leading man on the screen to-day, plays opposite Miss Davies, and prominent supporting roles are filled by C. Aubrey Smith, Raymond Hatton, David Landau, Ruth Selwyn, Maude Eburne, Little Bully, Guinn Williams, Clark Marshall, Ray Milland and Lillian Elliott. The picture was directed by Alfred Santell, who recently scored with "Daddy Long Legs" and "Sob Sister."

On the same programme is Edward G. Robinson in "Two Seconds.

ROMANO THEATRE

"The Famous Ferguson Case," the First National feature film now showing at the Romano Theatre, deals with a baffling crime which bears a strong resemblance to certain notorious murder mysteries of actual life; but it is not based upon any of them, and great care had to be exercised in order to see that no name was used which would be the same as that of a person involved in any of the real crimes. Joan Blondell heads the cast of "The Ferguson Case," playing the role of a newspaper "sob sister."

EDDIE CANTOR AT PLAYHOUSE

Eddie Cantor in "Palmy Days," which Samuel Goldwyn is presenting at the Playhouse Theatre to-day heralds the advent of a new kind of song-and-dance picture. His "Whoopee" last year was acknowledged the last and greatest of the first great flood of that kind of screen entertainment.

In form, last year's musical pictures imitated the commonly accepted conventions of the legitimate stage, with orchestras hidden in tree tops, with principals breaking out in song with little or no provocation and similar artificialities. Also being shown is "Skyline," with Thomas Meighan.

AID SOUGHT FOR APPLE STORAGE

Cold Storage Plant Asks Chamber Directors' Help on Freight Rate

Any assistance directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce can give in securing an adjustment of the present freight rate on apples from Okanagan Valley points to Victoria will be appreciated the directors were advised this afternoon in a letter from D. MacBride, general manager of the Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Company.

The directors decided to form a special committee to go into the matter immediately.

Sixty per cent of the estimated crop has been allocated for export, which will probably mean a volume of somewhere near 2,000,000 boxes, Mr. MacBride said. He had been making efforts to secure a fair share of this business for the cold storage plant in Victoria in competition with plants in Vancouver and New Westminster, but was handicapped by a differential of three and one-half cents per 100 pounds in export freight rate quoted by the C.N.R. and C.P.R. The export rate is thirty-four and one-half cents from Okanagan points to Vancouver as against thirty-eight cents to Victoria.

"It is our understanding," said the letter, "that terminal rates should be equal as is the case on traffic coming from other points, and as is the case on outward movement eastward.

Miss Kilpatrick was slightly cut around the legs.

Miss Ethel Johns and Ray Johns were passengers in the Johns car but were uninjured.

CHINESE WOMAN FOUND HANGED

Inquest to Be Held Over Body Discovered in Chinatown Attic

Chan Chut, forty-eight-year-old Chinese woman, was found hanging by a rope in an attic of Fisgard Street premises yesterday. She was believed to have taken her own life.

Police, when called to the scene by her son, Sam Hon, found that she had been suspended by a rope to a hook in the wall of the room. A stool beneath had apparently been kicked away.

Dr. E. B. Gung was notified and pronounced life extinct. The remains were taken to Sands Mortuary, where an inquest will be held.

Water Board Plan Is Investigated

Investigation dealing with the proposal to create a metropolitan water board for the Greater Victoria area by Mayor Leeming is gradually reaching a head, he announced this morning. A meeting of the City Council's special water committee will be held in the near future to discuss the matter.

There are legal aspects of the question still to be looked into, the mayor said this morning, but he has sought advice from experts on both sides of the problem.

"I have received information along this line from the mainland and have also talked it over with experts formerly connected with Provincial Government water matters."

Further pressure upon the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to join in representations to the Tolmie Cabinet to enforce the principles of economy expounded in the Kidd Report were presented in a letter from W. E. Payne, executive secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade, in a letter read at the meeting of directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce this afternoon.

The letter asked the chamber to reconsider its former stand of waiting until the government had had further opportunity to digest the report and join with all other organizations subscribing to the report in interviewing the cabinet this week to ask the broad principles be acted upon.

The Victoria chamber agreed to co-operate in the matter.

Alderman W. T. Straith pointed out the Victoria group had been unwilling to vouch its co-operation earlier because directors had varied in opinion on the report. Inasmuch as Vancouver was merely asking for the endorsement of general principles, such as reduction in borrowings and economy in government, he moved the chamber meet the Vancouver request.

"We hope the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will reconsider its position and join with us in presenting these views to the cabinet when the adjourned meeting is arranged. One thing we all desire is unanimity and our approval to the government must be unanimous," Mr. Payne wrote.

"The organizations on the mainland which are represented within the group that has made representations to the provincial government are not concerning themselves with the details of the recommendations which have been presented to the provincial government by the provincial economy committee," the writer said. "They contend that these recommendations can only be dealt with by the provincial government and action taken by that authority.

"What they have considered and have dealt with are the principles contained in the report in so far as they refer to a necessity for the most rigid economy in the affairs of the province so that we may be in a position to balance our budget without recourse to further borrowings or increased taxations. This latter policy in no way differs from the recommendations of the joint committee, of which the Victoria men are a part and which represented to the government in March, 1931, and again in the spring of this year."

"There was no intention on the part of the Mainland representatives to interfere with the policy of giving the government every time to fully consider every phase of the report, Mr. Payne wrote.

"The fact must not be lost sight of," he said, "that the Provincial Government has re-issued the Kidd report, together with a statement which can be more or less regarded as a reply to the representatives of the Kidd report.

"Every organization represented in the joint committee on the Mainland has considered the Kidd report and in every case the conclusion has been arrived at that it would be futile to discuss the details with the joint committee for that reason that no two opinions would coincide, and for that reason it has been decided to confine ourselves to representations to the government on the broad lines of provincial economy.

"This we cannot think Victoria business men will disagree with, as they are pledged with us to those views."

Temperature Hits 76 To-day; Record

Not content with making last month the sunniest September since 1891, the weather man to-day gave Victoria the highest temperature for an October day since records were first commenced in 1873.

At 2.15 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer at Gonzales Heights registered 76 and there were prospects of the mercury climbing a bit higher, according to F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory. The highest previous mark for an October day is 74, set October 1, 1923.

A forecast of fine days yet to come was made by Mr. Denison this afternoon.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

E. H. FISHER
EDWARD CONWAY

E. H. Fisher, 601 Ardersier Road, who celebrates his birthday to-day, is a man of many accomplishments. He was born in Australia, from where he moved to South Africa, then to England, later to California, and finally made his home in Victoria. As a contractor he had a hand in the construction of some of the finest buildings in Johannesburg, and followed the same business in California after the San Francisco fire. Imbued with that deep loyalty that characterizes many colonials, Mr. Fisher enlisted in the South African forces to serve in the Boer War. He joined the Canadian forces to serve overseas in the Gerat War. An organist, pianist and singer, he has led choirs in South Africa, California and Victoria. He is an all round sportsman and has made some good records on cricket teams in different parts of the world.

Edward Conway, 1023 North Park Street, celebrated the most important birthday of his life Saturday. He attained his majority and a large party of friends congratulated "Ted Conway" on becoming "Mr. Edward Conway" from now on.

THISTLES IN FIRST PLACE

Defeat Victoria West 2 to 1 to Gain League Lead in Coast League Football

LEAGUE STANDING

	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	Pts.
Saanich Thistles	3	2	1	0	8	4	4
Victoria City	3	1	1	1	5	5	3
Esquimalt	3	1	1	1	8	7	3
Victoria West	3	1	2	0	5	10	2

Chalking up a 2 to 1 victory over the Victoria West eleven at the lower Beacon Hill Grounds on Saturday afternoon, the Saanich Thistles gained undisputed possession of first place in the Victoria Division of the Pacific Coast Football Association. In their three matches to date the Thistles have chalked up two victories against one defeat. In the second match Saturday, Esquimalt and Victoria City fought to a 1 to 1 deadlock at Heywood Avenue. The City and Dockers are tied for second place, each with three points. The Wests are fourth with two points

Thistles opened their match with the Wests kicking down the hill, and as a result dominated the early play. McKenzie missed two good scoring opportunities for the Thistles, and at the other end of the field Youson rattled the crossbar with a fast drive. The Thistles forced play back and Hood, Wests' goalie, blocked three hard shots from Mail, McKenzie and Burns.

The opening goal of the match came after twenty minutes of play, a weak shot from Burns getting away from Hood. It was only a few minutes later that the Wests deadlocked the count, Connorton driving the ball past Wilmshurst after making his own opening. Half-time found the teams still on even terms.

With ground conditions favoring them in the second half the Wests held the offensive, but the Thistles proved capable of holding their own. Both goals were subjected to several dangerous attacks, but it was not until halfway through the period that Burns caught his own rebound off Moody to beat Hood with what proved the winning counter. The Wests worked hard for the tying goal in the later stages of the match, but found the Saanich back division too strong a barrier.

Stewart refereed.

The teams follow:

Saanich Thistles—Wilmshurst, Joe Crowe, Leggett, R. Williams, Viggers, A. Duncan, Easler, Price, Mail, Burns, McKenzie and Armitage.

Victoria West—Hood, Moody, Wright, Lorandini, Peers, Mulcahy, Youson, Okell, Connorton, Cockin and Shanks.

Forced to play throughout the first half with only nine men and in the second with ten, Esquimalt did well to earn their draw with Victoria City. Two men short in the first part of the match, the Dockers were practically entirely on the defensive with their back division fighting desperately to keep the City forwards out. The City secured a one-goal lead in the first half through a goal by Davison.

With ten men Esquimalt put up a better exhibition in the second half and managed to drive home the tying goal when Sweeney scored from a free kick, a few feet outside the penalty area.

Saunders refereed.

The teams follow:

Esquimalt—De Costa, Marsh, Joe Watt, Rawlings, Sweeney, Pepin, John Watt, Evans, McAllister and Bichard.

PARTY APPROVES TOLMIE MOVES

Provincial Conservative Executive Endorses Union Government Plans

But It Is Emphasized Coalition Will Not Curb Old-line Local Political Organizations

Premier Tolmie's union government moves were, as announced Saturday, accorded formal approval by the executive of the British Columbia Conservative Association before the members adjourned their all-day session at the Empress Hotel Saturday afternoon to accept the invitation of the Premier and Mrs. Tolmie for afternoon tea at the Tolmie homestead.

Included under union government moves approved was the plan to call a session of the Legislature in January and to hold a general election some time later.

Most of the meeting was devoted to the discussion of union government.

It was emphasized that any union government was not to interfere with the activities of local Conservative associations, which are to continue their organizations, on the ground that they are needed for federal party purposes.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting of the Conservative executive in Vancouver in November. R. A. Wootton, Mrs. W. C. Moresby and W. C. Winkel urged Victoria as the meeting place, up-country delegates urged Penticton, but the meeting decided on Vancouver.

In the declaration of intended policies placed before the meeting by Premier Tolmie he specified reduction of the cabinet to eight ministers instead of the present eleven, but it was decided to delete the specified number, letting the wording remain "To reduce the cabinet" and promising "a thorough organization of the cabinet and in that reorganization representatives of other groups will be afforded an opportunity to participate." It was declared that deletion of the specified reduction in the size of the cabinet was made because of the feeling in some party circles that the cabinet should be cut down still more drastically than to the eight—seven with portfolio and one without portfolio as proposed by the Premier.

RESULTS STATED

The statement handed out at the end of the conference by President Lindley Crease, K.C., Secretary W. O. Wallace, Vice-president Col. W. W. Foster and Provincial Organizer H. D. Twigg, was as follows:

"The British Columbia Conservative Association was in session to-day from 10.30 a.m. until 4.15 p.m.

"Premier S. F. Tolmie was present at the invitation of the executive.

"The main resolution, which was unanimously carried, read as follows: 'That this executive of the British Columbia Conservative Association go on record as approving the principle of union government in the present crisis.'

"Various other resolutions were passed and special committees were empowered to bring the main resolution into effect.

"The next annual meeting will be held in Vancouver at a date to be set in November.

"The meeting was marked by a spirit of harmony and evident desire on the part of all to unite all elements both within and without the party in furtherance of the best interests of the province by a union government.

"It was also made clear that having regard to federal politics local associations should retain their organizations and continue such activities."

SEEK OWNER OF DUGOUT

Tragedy in Straits Hinted By Discovery of Empty Craft

Provincial police to-day were trying to trace the ownership of a dugout canoe found adrift Saturday two miles east of Discovery Island.

Containing fishing tackle, a stale salmon and oars, the craft was picked up by J. McLean, Vern Terrace, and gave rise to possibility of a tragedy.

The police said they had no report of missing fishermen nor had they learned of anyone losing the boat, and sought co-operation of the public in ascertaining these facts.

PLAN TO SEND MINISTER ENDS

No special trade mission will be sent to England at this time by the British Columbia Government, it was stated by Premier Tolmie this morning. Suggestions that a cabinet minister head a special delegation will not be considered. Premier Tolmie having expressed the view that this province has, at British Columbia House, representation in London capable of efficiently assisting any movement designed to benefit this province.

In addition, the lumber industry is represented in England by Loren Brown, an expert in lumber sales organization.

In addition to E. P. Burden, Agent-General, who was formerly Minister of Lands, the province has Hon. T. Coventry in London as markets commissioner.

CURRENCY AID IS PROPOSED

A proposal by the Edmonton City Council for limited inflation of currency to assist cities and provinces of Canada to meet unemployment relief costs will be discussed by the Victoria City Council next Monday. The resolution covering the matter was received at the City Hall to-day. It reads:

"Resolved that we urge upon the federal government to assist in refloating our debt-logged institutions by the issuance of Dominion currency at cost against the bonds of provincial and municipal governments, or other practical means to such amounts as will carry the cost of unemployment relief and make it possible to carry on productive works or necessary improvements."

international problems," said Mr. Henderson. "Labor stands for socialism because it is convinced its workers can only realize freedom and social equality by substituting publicly owned industries and services for disorganized competition and domination of vested interests.

"There is no political justification for the existence of a Labor party," argued George Lathan, Labor M.P. and chairman of the conference, "except as a socialist body working toward a socialist objective and determined to achieve its object as rapidly as possible."

CANADA DISCUSSED

John Bromley, Labor member of Parliament and noted trades union leader, one of the two Labor advisers attached to the British delegation to the recent Ottawa Conference, said he had learned in Ottawa the Canadian government was "trying to make up" with the United Kingdom the trade it had lost with the United States.

As a consequence of imposition of a tariff by the United States on Canadian lumber, Canadian statesmen, said Mr. Bromley, had sought to replace the northern Europe hardwood imports to Britain with "unsuitable Canadian softwood. And the British worker requiring wood for building would have to buy it," he added. "I thought it my duty, in a document not yet published, to protest against the suggestion the trade agreement with Soviet Russia should be abrogated.

"I was assured, as were the other advisers, that the British delegates would stand against any such suggestion. We were so assured that I came away satisfied the British government would not bend to the suggestion."

CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND HARD

But Britishers Preserve Brave Exterior, Dean Quainton Says on Return

"Economic conditions in England show no striking improvement. Unemployment is not decreasing yet poverty does not stare one in the face," Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, stated to-day in reviewing conditions in England as he saw them during a three months' visit. He returned to Victoria on Saturday and is preparing a lecture on his impressions under the heading of "England Revisited."

"Never to outward appearances were the masses of the population so well clothed, so healthy and so well behaved. Vast crowds throng to all the seaside resorts and places of amusement are well patronized. Yet poverty does exist behind this brave exterior."

Abuses of the dole were being remedied by the National Government although the remedies were meeting with some discontent on the part of the needy, Dean Quainton stated. "Everybody agrees that the dole is a bad name for a good thing. Whatever evils have followed the dole are lesser than those evils which would have existed had their been no dole," he added.

ENGLAND HOPEFUL

"England is steady and hopeful, yet there is no wildly enthusiastic optimism. It is felt that it is too early to predict confidently what the results of the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference will be but a sounder judgment can be formed after fuller knowledge of what England is committed to is determined and after the resultant legislation is passed."

The Dean noticed no great outcry against heavy taxation but under his imperturbableness the Englishman was longing for the day when relief would come. "Unless the National Government can lighten the burdens of taxation, discontent will become more than vocal," he commented.

Regarding the recent cabinet shuffle in Britain the Dean added: "I do not think the defection of Lord Snowden and the other ministers who left the cabinet will seriously weaken it. The move may be a salutary warning to over-zealous tariff reformers."

OXFORD GROUP STRONG

Turning to church affairs, he stated the Oxford group movement was a very big thing. He intended to deal with this subject in the course of the lecture he is preparing.

The Dean was accompanied by Mrs. Quainton and joined in England by his two sons and their wives. The summer was one of the best, from a climatic viewpoint, experienced there for more than twenty years, he stated. He revisited his old parish at Holmfirth, Great Yarmouth, and during August had charge of London Parish, St. Barnabas, West Kensington.

The application of Duncan MacBride, manager of the Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Company, for membership in the Chamber of Commerce, was accepted at the directors' luncheon in the chamber to-day.

West Bromich Albion Out To Repeat, Using Same Team

Weetamoe Will Invade English Waters In Quest Of Honors

Wilbert Robinson, Former Brooklyn Manager, Forgets Bitterness

FEWER clubs have a better team in British soccer this season than West Bromwich Albion, the club that won the cup and also promotion to the first division in April, 1931.

Mostly young players and with the identical team that won the cup in 1931, West Bromwich has a happy family. All Canada knows Tommy Magee, who has twice toured Canada; Pearson, the goalie, whose father kept goal for Albion before, and Sandford, famous winger, whose father asked Albion not to give his son too much money, as it might spoil him.

Tommy Glidden, the outside right, is the captain, and Shaw, the right full-back, is the player Huddersfield allowed to go because of Goodall's class. Now Shaw is about the best back in England.

Just outside Birmingham, the Albion has to fight for support alongside Birmingham and Aston Villa, but always keeps abreast of the times, and when the time comes to hand out honors the "Throstles" are always chirping for a share.

Billy Bassett is the chairman and he himself was a star thirty years ago.

After a lapse of nearly forty years, an American sloop—leader of the American cup class—will invade England's waters next spring in quest of yachting honors.

Weetamoe, bronze "Sea King" of Frederick H. Prince and pride of her class, will carry the Prince colors and those of the New York Yacht club in races on the British circuit.

Thus Weetamoe will match her sails with those of Britannia, the King's cutter; Shamie, T. O. P. Sopworth's sloop; White Heather; Astra Candida and the old Herreshof schooner, Westward.

Weetamoe's spare mast will be shipped abroad early in the spring and she will follow, leaving Bristol late in April or early in May under a jury rig.

Announcement that Weetamoe was going abroad aroused renewed discussions among the "old times," who remembered the poor showing of Navahoe in 1893 and Vigilant in 1891.

Although Navahoe, built for Rolay Phelps Carroll, returned with the Branton's Reef cup in a close race with Britannia she was unsuccessful in other races. Vigilant's record was a great disappointment after her successful defence of the America cup the year previous.

The British circuit opens in June and extends well into September. The races are held in the Clyde and the Solent.

Brooklyn's "Forgotten Man"—Uncle Robby—is Admiral Wilbert Robinson now.

Out of baseball this season for the first time almost in the memory of sports followers, genial Uncle Robby has selected pine-scented Dover Hall, Ga., winter haven of baseball men, as a retreat in which to forget the disappointment that accompanied his dismissal as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Uncle Robby has forgotten and has been forgotten.

Bitter at first, he is now reconciled, and is one of Brooklyn's strongest rooters. Uncle Robby gets more of the big league papers and has followed with intense interest the two major races.

That is the report brought back by Nap Rucker, Brooklyn's scout and Uncle Robby's close friend. Nap returned recently from a visit to the "Forgotten Man of Flatbush."

"He's not Uncle Ribby any more," Nap said. "They call him Admiral Robinson down there. Robby is a big seaman now. He spends most of the time riding up and down the lake in a boat rigged up with a swivel chair and an umbrella."

Here's the prize "dodo" story: Charles H. Calhoun Sr., shot a hole in one on the third hole of the country club at Washington, Ga. Following immediately behind, in another foursome, Charles H. Calhoun Jr., shot an ace on the same hole.

Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, has a lifetime batting average of .342 compiled in nine seasons of playing. His best year was in 1930, while a member of the Giants he walloped the horsehide for a percentage of .401. In 1924, his first year in New York, he hit .339.

Ed Barrow, now business manager of the New York Yankees, and formerly of the Toronto Maple Leafs, managed the Boston Red Sox from 1918 to 1922 and won the pennant in 1918.

Colwood Hoopsters Secure Even Break

Colwood hoop teams broke even in their two games played Saturday night at Colwood, with the home women downing the Terriers 28 to 9 and Colwood men dropping a close battle to the K. of P., 36 to 27.

WOMEN'S PAR EVENT

In the women's par competition at the Uplands Golf Club yesterday Mrs R. L. Pocock was the winner in class "A" with a score of 4 down, while Miss D. M. Locke won in class "B" with a card of 5 up.

Tony Lazzeri Crashes Two Home Runs In Sensational 13 to 6 Win Over Chicago

Veteran Second Baseman Provides Knockout Punch as Yankees Collect Nineteen Hits Off Five Chicago Hurlers; Combs and Demaree Also Hit for Circuit

ELEVEN HOME RUNS CRASHED IN SERIES

Allen, Moore and Pennock Work on Mound for Yankees; Southpaw Jake May Strikes Out Ruth Twice; Bottom End of Yanks' Batting Order Does Damage

Chicago, Oct. 3—In a riproarnig climax that smashed world series records and blasted the last faint National League hopes to fragments, the New York Yankees rode roughshod yesterday to their third successive clean sweep in baseball's classic championship.

By the record-busting score of 13 to 6, the American League champions overpowered and routed the last vestiges of the defence of the Chicago Cubs.

Five Bruin pitchers failed in the last attempt to stop this steam roller as the Yankees pounded out their fourth successive victory, thereby running their unprecedented winning streak to an even dozen triumphs over the National League in the combined campaigns of 1927-28-32.

There has never been anything like it in baseball history. The statisticians as well as the Cubs were dazed and shell-shocked after the last big bombardment, in the ninth, had been delivered against the veteran Burleigh Grimes. Another big crowd, estimated at close to 50,000, left silently and in awe of those mighty men from New York after an afternoon of wild but futile encouragement to the home forces.

GREAT OUTBURST

It was all over, and the stage set for another year of battered spirits in the ranks of the National League, beaten back after enjoying the thrill of only one season at the top of the baseball roost. But the echoes lingered on of this last Yankee outburst, as uncontrollable as a herd of wild elephants on the loose.

Where Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig had pounded the Cub ramparts to pieces Saturday with a thrilling exhibition of long range hitting that helped the Yanks to their 7 to 5 victory, their teammates rushed in to complete the job of mopping up the bewildered Chicagoans. There was the wildest kind of uproar as Ruth, the great man himself, fanned twice with men on bases, but the base hitting bats of Earle Combs, Joie Sewell, Tony Lazzeri and Bill Dickey did more than enough damage to offset the Babe's failures.

LAZZERI IS STAR

Lazzeri, recovering his batting eye for the first time in the series, smashed out two home runs. Combs knocked another over the bleacher fence and crossed the plate four times altogether. These two, with Sewell and Dickey, each contributed three hits apiece to the grand total of nineteen, one short of the world series record, accumulated by the Yankees.

Three Cub pitchers, Guy Bush, Lon Warneke and Jake May, were knocked out of the box in the course of a bombardment which reached its climax with four-run rallies in the seventh and ninth. Grimes was the victim of the final big barrage, which included home runs by Combs and Lazzeri in the ninth, after Bud Tinning, young right hander, had momentarily halted the Yankees at the end of the seventh and throughout the eighth.

Bush, attempting to stage a comeback in the box after being beaten in the first game, lasted only a third of the first inning after yielding hits by Combs and Sewell, hitting Ruth in the back and walking Lazzeri. Warneke checked this uprising, without further addition to the single run tallied off Bush, but the young leader of the year's National League pitchers was belted by Lazzeri's first homer in the third and knocked out of the box in the fourth. May, a southpaw, was blasted from the premises in the seventh.

A GAME FIGHT

For six full innings, however, the Cubs themselves made the gamest kind of a fight to prolong the series. Retaliating for the rough treatment accorded Bush, they rushed at young Johnny Allen, the Yankees' freshman right-handed star, and belted him out of the box in the first frame.

Frank Demaree's home run into the left field bleachers produced three runs for the Cubs at the outset, sent them off roaring into a lead and had the crowd wild.

Wilcy (Cy) Moore, the veteran "sinker ball" expert, checked the Chicagoans in the first inning after they had run up four runs altogether. He continued to hold them in subjection until the sixth, when the Yankee defence unexpectedly fell apart and yielded the run that enabled the Cubs to pull back to even terms.

PENNOCK GOES IN

For the second time in the series the veteran Herb Pennock, whose willowy southpaw arm has for years cast a spell over all world series opposition, came brilliantly to the rescue. Taking the box in the seventh, after Moore had been replaced by a pinch hitter, Pennock stood off the last desperate charges of the Cubs in the last three innings.

The veteran portsider had the bases filled in the eighth, with only one out, as a result of Stephenson's single, a pass to Demaree and error by Crosetti on Hartnett's hard grounder. Here was a chance for the Cubs to put on one of their characteristic home field rallies, but Bill Jurges popped a short fly to Chapman and Ralston Hemsley, pinch hitting for Tinning, fanned for the third time in the series.

The sixth and last Cub run in the ninth was a gift as Herman, who opened with a single, was permitted to take two bases unmolested and came home on English's infield out. Cuyler fanned and Stephen's hoist to Chapman ended the game.

The total output of nineteen runs for the two clubs represented one of the numerous records set during the final game as well as the series. It was one more than ever had been tallied before by any pair of contending teams. The four-game crop of eleven home runs, eight of them by the Yankees, was another unprecedented achievement.

EVERYBODY HITS

The Yankee attack ran from top to bottom of the batting order throughout the final melee, but if there was one notably decisive shot fired, it was little Joie Sewell's blow through the infield with the bases full in the seventh inning. Up to this stage it was a free for all slugging match. The Cubs, chiefly through the ability of Warneke and May to put the silencer on the home run proclivities of Ruth and Gehrig, were still in the thick of it. They had put the tying run on the score board. They had weathered two Yankee rallies, in the third and sixth, holding the visitors to two runs each time.

It was, in short, anybody's ball game until the supposedly weaker side of the Yankees' firing squad got into action in this fatal seventh. Dickey's single, Crosetti's double and a pass to Ruffing, pinch hitting for Moore, quickly populated the bases. Hoag ran for Ruffing. Then came the first "break" as Combs dropped a short fly exactly on the left field foul line, a dozen yards behind third base. The Cubs held a meeting around the ball before and after it came down, claiming it bounced foul, but the umpires ruled otherwise. Dickey ran home and the bases were still full.

TIMELY BLOW

Alabama Joe Sewell chose this psychological moment to ram his third hit of the day between Grimm and Herman. Crosetti and Hoag raced home, the Yankees now had a three-run margin and as it turned out, the ball game was over. Ruth brought Combs home with his only hit of the day, a single to right field.

Lazzeri's first homer, scoring Gehrig ahead of him in the third, was aided by a lucky bounce. It was a high fly that came down almost within Cuyler's reach as he backed against the right field screen. As Kiki jumped for the ball, it hit the curved top of the screen and caromed into the bleachers.

The Yankees registered no fewer than four errors in putting up an erratic defensive exhibition, including two by Shortstop Crosetti, but the young Yankee infielder offset this with two spectacular plays in a series of three that snuffed out the Cubs in the fifth inning.

DAZZLING DISPLAY

This was the most dazzling field display of the series, otherwise marked by rather ragged defensive work. Crosetti's first feat was a running catch of English's foul well down the left field line and close to the boxes. He grabbed the ball while tearing full tilt and jarred himself slightly bouncing off the barrier. On the next play, Crosetti came rushing in behind the box to pick up Cuyler's grounder with one hand and nip the fleet Cub outfielder by a half stride with a brilliant throw to Gehrig. Lazzeri then completed this three star performance by spearing Stephenson's line drive, the force of which carried him sideways into the dirt.

FIRST INNING

Yankees—Combs up. Combs slashed the first ball through Bush for a single. It went through the pitcher as well as shortstop Jurges. Sewell up. Sewell singled to right, Combs stopping at second. Ruth up. Strike one, called. It curved over the outside corner. Ruth was hit in the back and the bases were filled. The Babe didn't have a chance to duck. Gehrig up. Manager Grimm went over to calmn down Bush. Ball one, inside. Gehrig hit a high fly to Demaree, Combs scoring after the catch. Sewell went to third and Ruth to second. Demaree plucked the ball off the screen in front of the centre field bleachers. Lazzeri up. Ball one, low. Ball two, inside. Foul, strike one, behind the plate. Strike two, swinging. Ball three, inside. Lazzeri walked, the fourth ball being inside, and the bases were filled again. There was hasty activity in the Cubs' pen, and Manager Grimm decided to remove Bush. YANKEES TO GET $5,000

World Baseball Champions Share Fat Melon, Two Teams Split $363,822.27

Chicago, Oct. 3.—The world championship New York Yankees and their Chicago Cub victims failed to break the record for the biggest player melon in the world series, but it was a bumper of the $363,822.27 variety.

By the fortunes of war, the Yanks will receive a team cut of $152,806.35, while the Cubs get $101,870.25. On the divisional man-to-man basis, each Yank will receive approximately $5,000 for four days' work. Each Cub's share will be around $4,000, for the simple reason they they were not as liberal in cutting their melon as their conquerers.

While the Yanks split their booty into thirty and a half shares, with $2,700 to the club house man and to two bat boys, the Cubs divided theirs on a twenty-four-share basis, leaving former Manager Rogers Hornsby out altogether.

NEWARK EVENS BALL PLAY-OFF

Defeat Minneapolis Millers 5 to 2 in Fourth Game of Little World Series

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 3.—Newark's big batting guns, silenced in the last games in their home park, banged loudly yesterday, and when the echoes died away they had projected the International League champions back into the running in the little world series by a 5 to 2 victory over Minneapolis.

As a result, each has two wins in the best four out of seven series which will be resumed here Tuesday.

Old veterans of the Miller pitching staff, who helped win the American Association pennant, found their magic useless yesterday. Most of the burden was thrown on Elam Van Gilder, a righthander. Rube Benton, a pitcher for twenty-two years, started out but was replaced by Pearidge Day, in the second inning.

Huddersfield In Sensational Form To Whip Newcastle

Ride Repeatedly Over Newcastle Defence in Chalking Up Surprising 4-to-0 Victory; Stoke Moves Up Into First Place in Second Division of English Football; Glasgow Rangers Retain Slim Lead in Scottish First Division by Draw With Motherwell

London, Oct. 3—Newcastle's surprising defeat on their home field at the hands of Huddlesfield Town Saturday left Aston Villa and Bradford, the only unbeaten teams, in the English League soccer race, as Southport and Gateshead both went down to defeat away from home.

At the end of Saturday's play Aston Villa held leadership of the First Division but Arsenal, after taking a fine game from Blackpool, 2 to 1, was only one point behind.

Newcastle appeared uninspired by 55,000 roaring fans who crowded the stands, and submitted to a 4 to 0 lacing. McLean's clever goal in the twenty-sixth minute started the fireworks and from then on Huddersfield maintained an edge on the play. During a sensational five minutes Huddersfield rode repeatedly over the Newcastle defence and Smith, artful left-winger, drove in two goals. Whittam snipped the fourth and last.

Aston Villa continued a winning streak at the expense of Chelsea. Gibson topped a dazzling start to score in the second minute and was followed by Astley in the nineteenth. Chelsea played nice football, but could do no better than score one goal.

Blackpool and Manchester City took the cellar position in the standing with four points each. Manchester City took a 4 to 0 trimming from Derby County.

STOKE IN FRONT

Bradford City overwhelmed Port Vale 7 to 0 in the Second Division, but lost first place in the standing to Stoke which had a slightly better goal average.

Port Vale went through the game on the defensive. Alexander scored twice in the first frame. Bradford, after the interval, scored three times in fifteen minutes. Alexander, Webster and Hallows romped in to beat the Port Vale goalie, then Peel scored one and Hallows repeated to make the count 7 to 0.

Port Vale, with ten points is now in fourth place in the division standing, two points behind Plymouth who tied with Nottingham Forest 1 to 1.

West Ham continued sliding when Bury beat them with MacFayden's single goal and reached bottom, one point behind Charlton Athletics who took another defeat at home, this time from Bradford 2 to 0.

In the Southern Section of the Third Division Brentford dropped the first point to Bournemouth when Eyre scored, but came back in the second half to tie the game up when Compton tallied.

ARE DEADLOCKED

Bristol City, who last year hovered near the bottom of the standing, rose to share second place with Crystal Palace and Reading, all with eleven points. Palace and Reading, however, were lucky Saturday. Gamble scored for Aldershot to leave the score 1 to 0 at the interval. In the second frome Pinlock increased their lead but Ritchie followed closely with a goal for Reading and Palethorpe tied the score with a header just before the whistle blew.

Glasgow, Oct. 3.—Rangers Saturday remained in the lead of the First Division of the Scottish League soccer race after a stirring battle against Motherwell. A crowd of 50,000 persons jammed Ibrox Park to see the first and second place teams play to a 2 to 2 draw.

Murdoch put Motherwell in the lead before the interval with a fine goal. McPhail scored for Rangers in the second frame to put the teams on equal terms and then repeated to put Rangers one up.

Rangers, however, were unable to hold their slim lead and Ferrier tied the score shortly before the final whistle with a smart goal for Motherwell.

Partick Thistles scored a 2 to 1 win over Falkirk on two penalty kicks by Torbet.

Kilmarnock defeated East Stirling 2 to 1 in a game featured by roughness. Craigie, East Stirling's centre forward, was ordered off the field and Milliken, Kilmarnock's goalie, was taken to hospital with concussion of the brain.

Moore's single tally gave Aberdeen a 1 to 0 victory over Third Lanark.

D. Wilson's two goals and one by King gave Hamilton an easy win over Ayr United, 3 to 0.

A CLOSE WIN

Hearts and Celtic tied at 1 to 1 when neither team was able to break the deadlock of White's goal for Hearts and Napier's tally for Celtic. It was a hard fought and very even game throughout.

Dundee scored an easy 4 to 1 victory over Morton when Robertson scored three times and Campbell once. Ritchie got Morton's lone mark.

McAlpine scored twice and combined with Paul and Anderson to bring easy victory to Queen's Park over St. Mirren whose two goals both came off McCrae's boot. The final score was 5 to 2.

Benson scored for St. Johnstone and brought the only goal in a match with Airdrieonians.

CRICKETERS TO MEET TO-NIGHT

W.C.H.L. WILL BE RECOGNIZED

Newly-formed Prairie Hockey Circuit Will Be Affiliated With N.H.L.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—At the semi-annual meeting of the National Hockey League board of governors, here Saturday, affiliation was given to the newly-formed Western Canadian Professional Hockey League. Affiliation was voted following receipt of a letter from Lloyd Turner, Calgary.

Plans were made for the N.H.L. season, and affiliation as a minor league was also granted the American Hockey Association.

The N.H.L. clubs will swing into action about November 10 with nine teams. At the request of the rest of the league, the Pittsburgh Hockey Club will not operate its franchise during the 1932-33 season. Ottawa Senators return to the fold after allowing its franchise to remain inactive for one year.

NO PLAYER DEALS

No player deals resulted from the meeting but an important managerial post appeared to be filled with the semi-official announcement that "Bullet Joe" Simpson would manage the New York Americans, succeeding Eddie Gerard, who returns to the Montreal Maroons. Simpson is a former Edmonton player.

For the rental of players under contract the league agreed to pay Pittsburgh a sum of $10,000. The players are: Cude, Milks, Coulson, Barton, Jarvis, Pringle and McKinnon. Disposition of these players is to be announced later.

Junior Football

Jokers, Esquimalt and Royal Oak applied the whitewash brush to their opponents in Saturday's junior soccer matches. Jokers blanked James Island on the latters' ground, 3 to 0, Esquimalt hung up a 4 to 0 win over the Y.M.C.A., and Royal Oak overcame Oaklands, 6 to 0.

Entries for the Lower Island and Provincial Cup series will be taken at a special meeting in the Y.M.C.A. this evening at 7.30 o'clock. All delegates are requested to attend the meeting.

Regina Riders Are Beaten By Brilliant Saskatoon Gridders

University of Saskatchewan Team Turns Back Western Canada Champions 8 to 4; First Victory of Saskatoon Club Over Riders in Eleven Years; Moose Jaw and Calgary Win; Toronto Argonauts Whip Varsity in City Championship Battle

Winnipeg, Oct. 3—At least two rugby football teams in western Canada to-day have good cause to be proud of their prowess at booting and bucking, as the fans look over the results of scheduled matches in the four prairie provinces Saturday. And the champions of them all Regina Roughriders are wondering whether they ought not to look to their laurels after their defeat at the hands of a passing and kicking duo from the University of Saskatchewan. Weather throughout the west was ideal.

Supplying a brand of football which swept the visiting Regina Roughriders off their feet, University of Saskatchewan took an 8 to 4 victory from the Western Canada champions, making it the first time Regina has been beaten by a Saskatoon team in eleven years. Great forward passing by John Logan for Varsity was too much for the Queen City defence and Dempster's kicking did the rest.

MOOSE JAW WINS

Moose Jaw Maroons at home, chalked up their first win in two years when they blanked Saskatoon Quakers 15 to 0 in a Saskatchewan Rugby Union scheduled match. With three minutes to go in the last quarter, Lennie Macdonald kicked a catch fumbled by a Quaker back, picked it up and ran it over the line to add a touch to his contribution, which already included converting Simington's touch in the second quarter and kicking a field goal. Latimer rouged Jack Macdonald of the Quakers for the other point.

Another victory by a one-point margin went to Calgary Altomahs as they battled to a 5 to 4 triumph over Edmonton Eskimos in an Alberta Football League fixture. The previous Saturday they scraped out a 1 to 0 win from the Eskimos after a great struggle, which was duplicated Saturday as both teams fought for supremacy every inch of the way.

What seemed a valiant fight to down a better team fell to pieces in the second half here as Winnipeg took a blank whipping from champion St. John's to the tune of 26 to 0, and the provincial titleholders took a virtual clinch grip on the Manitoba League leadership following their win over Garrison on Tuesday night.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—They're setting up a wider shelf to-day for the football dope can. None of the east's grid teams have jolted this famous old relict of the prophets hard enough to bring about an upset in two weeks of warfare, but they've sent it tottering a dozen times.

Hamilton's Tiger Cubs and an underrated University of Toronto clan gave the tinware a most troublesome time Saturday. The Cubs made it unexpectedly tough for Sarnia Imperials, leading up to the three-quarters mark before succumbing 9 to 8 to the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions as High Stirling booted the winning points.

Varsity and Argonauts of the Big Four battled for the city championship here and Argos won late in the fourth quarter when Ab Box, slender twenty-two-year-old former Balmy Beacher, banged three puns back of the Varsity goalline for singles to overcome a one-point Blue lead. The final score was 9 to 7.

In an exhibition at London, Hamilton Tigers downed University of Western Ontario's intercollegiate champions, 8 to 2.

Queen's were given a hard battle at Kingston by Ottawa Roughriders, the tricolor earning a 13 to 9 win. McGill was impressive, beating back Royal Military College intermediates in their annual fixture, 26 to 0.

Montreal's Dominion champions piled up a 26 to 6 count on the Canadian Nationals of the Quebec Union intermediate division, and Balmy Beach won over St. Michael's here, 29 to 12.

ANDERSON WINS FROM WOLFGANG

Popular Seattle Boy Takes Main Event in Tillicum Wrestling Card

McGregor Given Decision When Martin Dives Out of Ring on to Head

Taking the first fall with an airplane spin and body slam in the third round and gaining the second in the following canto with a surfboard, Des Anderson, Seattle, added another victory to his credit on local mats Saturday evening when he defeated Floyd Wolfgang, Washington, in the main event at the Tillicum gym.

The bout was fast all the way. Using a stepover toe-hold, Wolfgang bothered Anderson in the first round. Anderson retaliated with shoulder butts and an airplane spin.

In the second round both roughed it up. Wolfgang punishing the Seattle boy with a crucifix before the latter broke away to gain a double toe hold.

Wolfgang applied several flying wristlocks and repeated his Japanese arm stretch before Anderson knocked him groggy with shoulder butts. Des ended the third round with an airplane whirl and body slam that gave him his first fall. His second came in the first minute of the fourth when he flattened Wolfgang with a surfboard.

DIVE ENDS BOUT

In the semi-windup Bunny Martin, Oklahoma, and Bob McGregor, former Indiana University football player, gave the fans plenty of action before Martin, trying a flying tackle, shot through the ropes and bounced himself out on the floor below in the fourth round. He was unable to continue.

Johnny Pears beat "Fat" Griffin with a reverse body slam in the third round of the preliminary. It was the only fall of the bout.

Ernie Arthur refereed the main event and semi-windup, while Fred Pissenden looked after the preliminary.

Prices Unchanged In Wheat Market In Dull Session

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—Lack of support in outside markets and a holiday in the export field gave a dull appearance to trade in the wheat pit to-day. It was a market patterned after that of Saurday. Prices at the close were unchanged for the day.

October closed at 49¼; November at 50⅜; December at 51½, and May at 56½.

The fluctuation between the high and low prices was about ¼ and for long periods the quotations never changed. A little flurry in the opening minutes advanced values a fraction, but when they died down the pit gradually cleared and at times was almost deserted.

Export trade was not a factor and transactions were largely in the nature of spreading operations between the different months. Overseas advices contained little of interest. World shipments were well maintained at 13,750,000 bushels, of which 8,500,000 bushels came from Canada and the United States.

Cash wheat and coarse grain trade was light and spreads generally were unchanged.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, Oct. 3—Wheat: The market experienced another dull and uninteresting session to-day with nothing of feature going on, with trade volume the smallest for some time at least. There was just a small mixed trade passing, the most of which was spreading operations, opening prices were ¼ to ⅜ higher which was based on the cables being a little firmer than due, and to the general showers in the west. However, the slight upturn was not held, the market holding at unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Export sales over the week-end were confined to a few scattered loads of Manitobas and after these orders were filled there did not appear to be any bids in the market. The support from the big interest was still present for May wheat at 56½ cents, but they did not have to take a great deal this morning as offerings were light after the first rush of hedging sales were over.

In the cash market there was a fair demand for all grades except No. 1 northern which is still not wanted. All spreads were about unchanged. Large quantities of wheat are being moved down the lakes to supply the present export demand and to take care of requirements during the winter months. The feeling in export channels is that Canadian exports will total around 135,000,000 bushels at the close of lake navigation about December 10, which will account for our carryover from last season and will still leave us a surplus of around 325,000,000 bushels to dispose of during the following seven months when we shall be meeting severe competition from the southren hemisphere countries and possibly from the U.S. The latter having exported very little so far this season.

Canadian visible increased 8,699,000 bushels, while the U.S. visible increased 1,591,000 bushels. Country marketings in the west on Saturday were 4,472,000 bushels of wheat vs. 1,749,000 year ago. The Chicago market declined 1 cent during the first period but reacted part way. The stock market was weak. Still favor bulge sales.

Winnipeg closed unhanged to ⅛ lower and Chiago closed ½ lower.

Coarse grains—These markets continued dull and draggy with very little of any description going on. The selling pressure is light but the market lacks demand and business.

Oats closed ⅝ to ¾ lower, barley ⅞ to ⅜ lower, and flax ⅜ higher to ⅝ lower.

Liverpool due ⅛ lower to unchanged on Winnipeg.

CHICAGO

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Wheat: The market was steady at the start to-day, but sold off rather sharply later on weakness in stocks, with a partial recovery later. Liverpool was relatively strong and Winnipeg also showed a steady tone on the declines, there was buying against bids and a fair commission house demand.

Liverpool closed ½ to ¾ higher, but said the actual demand was slow and German offers for exports were increasing. Argentine reports stress the unfavorable reports of locusts in the north. World exports were 13,709,000 bushels, and there was an increase in on passage stocks which total is now about 8,000,000 bushels less than a year ago, the increase for the week being 4,052,000 bushels.

Italian reports confirmed recent high estimates of the crop, and Russian advices said seeding of fall crop was now about 12,000,000 acres less than last year at this time. Primary arrivals 1,799,000 vs 1,381,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis stocks decreased 20,000 bushels for two days.

Private crop estimates of spring wheat averaged 268,000,000 bushels, and the forecast of the Canadian western crop was 433,000 bushels. Canadian visible increased 8,812,000 bushels and the domestic visible increased 1,591,000 bushels. The market is two sided at present, but continue to favor buying side on the setbacks for moderate profits.

Corn sold off early partly on large receipts and partly in sympathy with wheat. Private estimates of the crop averaged 2,912,000,000 bushels vs. September government estimate of 2,854,000,000 bushels. Reecipts here were 77 cars estimated and primary arrivals 1,366,000 vs 944,000 bushels a year ago. Shipping demand was only fair and country bookings were upwards of 100,000 bushels.

Weather conditions over week-end mainly fair. Argentine reports indicate smaller supplies of old corn and the planting season is just started, with some indications that holders will sell sparingly until the new crop gets a start. Export buying is still too small to be much of a factor. Visible supply increased 608,000 bushels.

Oats: Trade narrow market was easier with other grains, but the price changes were small. Primary arrivals fairly light. Estimates for October averaged 1,251,000,000 bushels. Visible decreased 120,000 bushels.

Rye featureless with trend decided by action of wheat. Cash trade quiet. Visible decreased 375,000 bushels.

MONTREAL OFF FRACTIONALLY

Canadian Press

Montreal, Oct. 3.—Fractional losses predominated on the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day. Trading continued dull.

Leaders were lower without exception. Half-point losses were suffered by Canadian Pacific at 18¼, International Nickel at 10 and Montreal Power at 36¼. Brazilian was off ⅛ at 11.

Other losses included Canadian Car, ¼ lower at 6¼; Hollinger, off 15c at 5.25; St. Lawrence Corporation down 10c at 50c, Canadian Car pfd. ½ lower at 17, Shawinigan down at 17½, Canada Cement ¼ lower at 4½ and Dominion Bridge down ⅛ at 18.

Massey Harris recovered a ½-point loss in the last few minutes to close unchanged at 5.

TORONTO STOCK TONE BETTER

Canadian Press

Toronto, Oct. 3.—Though price trend developed a slightly stronger tone in late trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day losses predominated throughout the various groups. Trading was unusually sluggish, the ticker remaining still for long periods between sales.

Central Patricia, advancing on rumors of early financing, moved up three in brisk demand. Canusa also was firmer but Moss, Brett, Bobjo, Siscoe, Algoma and Dominion Explorers displayed an easier tendency. Wright-Hargreaves, off three, showed the only change among higher-priced golds.

International Nickel recovered some of its early recession but finished down 25 on the day. Noranda and Amulet were unchanged to slightly lower. Eldorado encountered some selling but was off four.

In the oil section Peninsular Pete lost another cent but Homestead retained a small gain.

RENO GOLD IS LIVELY STOCK

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 3.—Interest in Reno Gold accounted for lively trading in the stock during the forenoon session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange to-day. Nearly 10,000 shares of Reno went across the board at 55 cents.

Georgia River Gold was represented by fairly brisk trading in the stock around 3½ cents, about in line with recent activity in George River.

Pend Oreille held unchanged at 89, Premier around 59, Pioneer at $3.90, which was bid for the stock, National Silver at 2½, Grandview at 5, Bralorne at 50, Noble Five at 4 cents, and the balance of the mining list at quotations about the same as those of last week.

In the oil section, Sterling Pacific brought 13, United 7, Crow's Nest one cent and C. & E. 40 cents. The greater part of the trading attention was directed toward the mining issues to-day.

We Are Responsible For Youthful Criminals

Dorothy Dix

Urges Vocational Training As Antidote

Let's Face the Fact That Most of Our Criminals To-day Are Mere Children, and That It Is Up to Us to Give Them the Kind of Training That Will Enable Them to Make a Fair Living and Avoid Temptation

THE MOST alarming thing in this country to-day is the fact that most of our criminals are mere children. The killers who murder men they have never seen before for a paltry hire are boys in their teens. The gun molls, the shoplifters, the street walkers are mostly little flappers on whose lips their mother's milk is hardly dry.

An the main reason these youngsters have turned to nefarious ways of getting what they want is because we have taught them no honest way of making a decent living. They have been turned out on the world from school with the necessity of supporting themselves and with no knowledge of how to do it. So they drift into the first job they can find, and being utterly unskilled and untrained and of little value to any employer, they receive a pittance of a wage that barely keeps soul and body together and leaves no margin over for the pleasure that youth craves and must have at any price.

Inevitably they become discouraged and disgruntled. They find neither pleasure nor profit in the work they do bunglingly and incompetently, and for which they receive small pay. Therefore, the great majority of them either soon lose their jobs or throw them up and become part of the great army of drifters who go from occupation to occupation, always with longer periods between employment, until finally they degenerate into bums and loafers.

What's the use in working, they argue, when you don't get enough to live on out of it? And so it is largely from this class of untrained, meagerly paid workers that the hoboes and the gangsters and the petty thieves and the girls who take what is euphemously called "the easiest way" are recruited.

The boy who cannot, on his poor wage, take out his sweetie and give her joyriders and make her presents, or buy himself the sheik clothes his soul yearns for, only too often robs the cash drawer of his employers, or becomes a bootlegger or a highjacker, or joins some gang of thieves. And only too sadly often the girl whose untrained fingers and brain can earn only a few dollars a week looks at her thin pay envelope and the finery she covets, and sells her soul to buy the chiffons and the snakeskin shoes that seem to her the most important thing in the world.

And let no one judge her too harshly. As Thackeray said of Becky Sharp, "any woman can be virtuous on $5,000 a year."

But the life story of thousands of these derelict boys and girls who crowd our courts and fill our jails would have been changed if they had been taught some trade or profession by which they could have made a fair living. Thousands of them would never have taken the wrong turn of the road if we had put into their hands some trade or profession as a weapon with which to fight the world instead of forcing them to use a gun or a blackjack. For human nature being what it is, the young, who are filled with the avid desire of their time of life for fun and frolic and feasting, for automobiles and swanky clothes and silk stockings and night clubs, are going to have them—honestly if they can, dishonestly if they must.

I am not contending that there is any univeisal panacea for crime, but I believe that the thing that would do more than any other one thing to stop it, at least among the young, is work, the sort of work that pays. To teach them from their very kindergarten days some way by which they can earn not only bread and butter, but a slice of cake.

To begin with, nothing does more to strengthen the moral character of a boy or a girl and to form habits of industry in them than having a trade, knowing how to do some definite work well. Whenever you find people who hate their jobs you may be sure that they are doing their work badly.

It is the bookkeeper whose books are always out of balance, the stenographers who cannot spell, who hate office work. It is the sloppy housekeepers who loathes the kitchen, and the incompetent lawyers or doctors who are bored by their professions.

But those who do anything superlatively well have a pride and joy and never-failing interest in their occupation. It is the craftsmen whose work is a religion to them who get the greatest joy out of life. So if every youngster were taught some trade or profession it would not only give him a livelihood, but something to fill his thoughts and hands and to bolster him up against temptation. We should give him self-respect.

These are the days of experts. There is no place in this busy world for bunglers. Employers have not the time themselves to train workers. The boy and girl who start out to do some one thing well enough to make their services profitable to whoever hires them. And we owe this training to the children of our country. We are not giving them a fair deal unless we equip them to make a living in the world in which they must live.

Of course, there will always be some congenital criminals. There will always be other men and women so indolent they would rather steal than work. But the great majority of boys and girls are not lazy. They are brimming over with energy that they do not know how to use and that we permit to get into the wrong channels.

Teach the youngsters how to make enough money legitimately to live on decently, and have a little left over for fun, and they will not go out and rob and murder to get it.

Life in Olden Babylonia

I.—STRANGE WRITING

North of the Arabian desert, and northwest of the Persian Gulf is land which is sometimes called "Irak-Arabi." It is between two rivers—the Tigris and the Euphrates.

Grotefend at Work on the Strange Writing

At the present time, Irak-Arabi is not the home of many persons—it is for the most part waste land; but long ago it contained thousands of bright-minded people who used river flood waters to make crops grow.

Two centuries ago, men from Europe wandered over this region and found slabs of baked clay with markings on the surface. They guessed that the markings were writings which they did not know how to read.

For many years, scholars were puzzled by this writing.

At length a slab of clay was found in a Persian city, and on the surface was writing of three kinds. One kind was "secret Persian," another kind was like that found in Irab-Arabi.

The secret Persian writing was another mystery; but in the year 1802, a German named Grotenfend discovered eight vowels, and was able to translate the words for "king" and "son."

Building on the work of Grotenfend other scholars learned to translate the secret Persian writing, and also the Irak-Arabi writing on the same slab of clay. The sets of words meant the same thing.

This long, careful study made it possible to tell the meaning of writing on hundreds of slabs of clay. Irak-Arabi is a modern name. Far back in history, the land between the Tigris and the Euphrates rivers was known as Babylonia.

Th people of Babylonia used to write on soft clay. Their writing ran from right to left—the opposite of our writing. In very early times, they used picture-words, the outline of a fish standing for the word "fish," the outline of a hand standing for "hand," and so on. In later years, their system of writing was changed.

In days to come, I will tell you some of the things about their everyday life which we have learned from the writing on slabs of clay.

RELIEF WORK CAMPS DEBATED

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—The question of establishing work camps for single unemployed men will be dealt with by Parliament, according to Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of the Interior.

"The question will come up before Parliament," said Mr. Murphy, who passed through Winnipeg. "I think the members of parliament are the best ones to devise what os to be done in that regard."

The minitser added, however, that the Dominion Government had already announced its agreement to cooperate with the provinces in the establishment of such camps.

Mr. Murphy could not say if the Dominion Government would assume full responsibility for the care of single unemployed men.

Capt. R. J. Healy Reports His Ship Will Reach Victoria Wednesday Morning

Survivors of Nevada Wreck Rapidly Regaining Strength After Exposure

Capt. R. J. Healy, commander of the American Mail liner President Madison, to-day wirelessed the company that he would bring his ship into quarantine at William Head at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The President Madison has aboard the only three survivors of the ill-fated steamer Nevada, James Thorsen, Fritz Dewell and Lucena Decanay.

The survivors of the Amatignak Island wreck are fast recovering from the effects of their exposure on the barren shores of the Aleutians and will be fairly fit by the time the Madison reaches here.

William M. Allan, agent for the American Mail Line here, has been advised that the President Madison will berth at the Rithet Docks at 7 a.m. Wednesday. The ship will remain here for two hours and will then leave for Seattle.

FIRST CONTACT POINT

The port of Victoria will again be the first point of contact in which the personal story of wreck survivors has been told.

The story of the experiences of the Nevada survivors will be broadcast from here to all points in the world.

According to a radio report relayed here from the Oregon Maru, which remained behind to search for possible survivors or bodies, no trace of any were found.

Thirty-four men were drowned when the Nevada struck East Point, Amatignak Island last Tuesday.

The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

MANILA GETS NEW RELEASES

Ralph Brambles Sails By President Jefferson After Arranging Season's Pictures

Returning to the Philippines after arranging moving picture contracts and readjustments, Ralph Brambles, representative of the Lyric Film Exchange, Inc., Manila, sailed from here Saturday by the outbound Ss. President Jefferson.

New releases, which have not yet been shown on this side, were secured by Mr. Brambles for first showing in his company's group of sixty theatres in the Philippines, he explained. They include productions by First National, Warner Bros., Columbia and United Artists. Out of 265 pictures submitted to Mr. Brambles, fifty-four were chosen, and of 400 shorts, 162 were selected.

The company represented by Mr. Brambles controls about 50 per cent of the theatres in the Philippine Islands, where there are 154 movie houses.

Mr. Brambles came here two months ago by the President Cleveland and visited Los Angeles and New York in making his selections. He booked his passage back from San Francisco by the President Harrison, but received instructions to remain over for new releases, resulting in a second trip to New York.

When he left here Saturday, Mr. Brambles said he expected to be back for new picture releases next March.

"Y" PROGRAMMES ARE OUTLINED

Discussion of programmes for the winter season featured the meeting of Y.M.C.A. committees at the home of J. B. Clearihue at Patricia Bay yesterday.

During the afternoon the members were given an outline of the physical departments' plans for the season.

The Apple Day project was considered, and methods of bringing it to the notice of the citizens were suggested.

Big steps were also made with plans for the membership campaign which will be launched to-night.

Following the various group meetings the assembly enjoyed a picnic supper and sing-song.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 3—Fire early yesterday destroyed a large part of $1,000,000 worth of liquor, seized by government officers, which was stored in the United States appraiser's stores on Atlantic Avenue here. Two alarms were sounded before the firemen finally conquered the fire.

BOEING BUILDS BIG AIR FLEET

All-metal Ships For United Air Lines Equipped With 23 Instruments

Seattle, Oct. 1.—With body assembly of the first of the fleet under way, construction of the new all-metal, low-wing, twin - engined, Wasp - powered transport planes being built by the Boeing Airplane Company for United Air Lines is proceeding at a steady pace. Placing of the first set of inboard spars marks the initial step in assembly work.

There will be twenty-three flying and engine instruments, in addition to controls and radio telephone equipment, on the new high-speed transports. These will include a landing gear position indicator, outside air temperature indicator, cylinder head temperature indicator, selector switch, two fuel gauges, artificial horizon, directional gyro, air speed indicator, turn and bank indicator, rate of climb indicator, altimeter, clock, two fuel pressure gauges, two oil pressure gauges, two oil temperature gauges, two tachometers, compass and anemometer.

The exterior of the new carriers will be unpainted, with the metal skin to be left in its anodized state. This dull metal tone is expected to add to the distinctive appearance of the transports.

The planes will carry ten passengers, two pilots and 400 pounds of mail at a top speed of 175 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 155 miles an hour. The motors will be two 550-horsepower supercharged Pratt & Whitney Wasps.

The first of the planes probably will go into service on the San Francisco-Cheyenne section of the transcontinental route of United Air Lines, where a wide range of flying conditions will permit thorough tests.

RADIO MAN IS GIVEN PRAISE

Inquiry Likely to Be Held Into Hudson Strait Iceberg Disaster

Canadian Press

Hope's Advance, Que., Oct. 3.—Thirty sailors from the sunken ship Bright Fan were safe aboard the government patrial boat N. B. McLean, to-day, and the crowded forecastle rang with their praise for a radio operator who remained at his post until the last man was ready to abandon ship.

The Bright Fan, six days out of Churchill with a cargo of grain foundered after ramming an iceberg in Hudson Strait. Her SOS pierced the chill pre-dawn and was picked up by the patrol boat less than fifty miles away.

With all hope abandoned of saving the ship, the crew put off in two open boats, led by Capt. Oliver. The radio operator was one of the last to leave, remaining at his key until the boats were launched.

Three hours after the grain boat was abandoned the waters reached the wireless generators. The Bright Fan went to the bottom; but the McLean was in sight, guided over the Arctic waters by the radio signals.

TO BE TRANSFERRED

Putting about for Wakeham Bay after picking up the Bright Fan's crew, the McLean anchored in that old harbor, remaining overnight. Contact is expected to be made to-day with the steamer Pensilva, bound from Barry, Wales, for Churchill. Capt. Oliver and his men will be transhipped to the ingoing vessel. They will return to Churchill and from there to Winnipeg.

The wreck was the first ship loss over the northern grain route since modern shipping opened last season. The Bright Fan, owned by the Fancott Shipping Company, Cardiff, Wales, had a cargo of 253,000 bushels of prairie grain. She was a vessel of 2,357 tons net.

INQUIRY LIKELY

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—While no official announcement has been made, an official inquiry will likely be held into the sinking of the Bright Fan, with Capt. Oliver and his crew testifying.

Probably Capt. Balcom of the N. B. McLean, which picked up the crew, also will give evidence.

Santa Lucia Sent Down Ways To-day

Ship Launched at Kearney, N.J., One of Fleet to Be Operated in Victoria Grace Line Service

Miss Hilda Holloway, Daughter of Vice-president, Acted As Ship's Sponsor

Kearney, N.J., Oct. 3.—Ss. Santa Lucia, third of the $20,000,000 fleet of four new passenger liners to be completed for the Grace Line, was launched to-day from the plant of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company here.

The Santa Lucia, together with her sister ships, the Santa Rosa, Santa Paula and Santa Elena, will be operated in the Grace Line intercoastal service between New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Victoria and Seattle. In the past the Grace Line vessels turned around at San Francisco.

Miss Hilda Holloway, twelve-year-old daughter of William Grace Holloway, vice-president of W. R. Grace and Company, christened the liner with a bottle of California champagne. The ceremony was broadcast throughout the east over the National Broadcasting chain.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of directors of the U.S. Steel Corporation, made the principal address following an introduction by Joseph P. Grace, chairman of Grace and Company directors. Other speakers were Col. Robert Isham Randolph, director of the World's Fair at Chicago, and George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Both expressed belief in expanding interest in the middle west on the American Merchant Marine.

Miss Lucy Lois Van Loben Sels, member of a pioneer California family and great, great grand-daughter of Noah Webster, took part in the ceremony as a representative of the state. One of the quartette of speedy liners remains to be launched, and that is the Santa Elena. Launching of the vessels marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of William Russell Grace, founder of the company. The first will enter the service between Victoria, Seattle, and the east coast when the Santa Rosa sails from New York November 26. She is due at Victoria De
